

EPA's plans for Olin site?

Community forum on May 15

WILMINGTON - Residents are invited to attend a Community Forum on Thursday, May 15, to discuss the Olin Chemical Superfund Site.

The Olin Chemical property was added to EPA's Superfund National Priorities List in April 2006. In June of 2007, EPA reached a settlement agreement with a group of Potentially Responsible Parties (PRPs). EPA believes these parties among others, are responsible for investigating and evaluating cleanup options with EPA oversight, under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (CERCLA). This process will provide an overview of

Scantly clad woman boards school bus

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Students on a Shawsheen Valley Technical High School bus had an unexpected, and uninvited, guest pay a visit on Friday afternoon.

At approximately 2:35 p.m. on Friday, April 11, Wilmington dispatch received several calls reporting that a female, estimated to be in her 40's and wearing just jeans and a bra, had briefly entered a stopped school bus on Richmond Street. Richmond Street is the section of Route 129 that runs over the Fred Cain Bridge and connects Main Street to Shawsheen Avenue.

According to Wilmington

Deputy Chief of Police Robert Richter, the woman entered the stopped school bus through the rear door and said something to the effect of, "How you doing, guys?" She then exited the bus, again through the rear door, returned to her vehicle and left the scene.

Richter did also confirm that the woman was wearing only jeans and a bra.

Wilmington Police did ascertain the suspect's identity, and issued a BOLO, but were not able to locate her.

"There was no harm done to any of the kids and no threats were made," Richter said. "She just appeared to be of an

Governor Deval Patrick was the keynote speaker at Wilmington Rotary Club's meeting on Wednesday. The Governor spoke about the economic health and the economic future of Massachusetts and announced eight new Workforce Training Fund grants totaling $517,193 to be awarded to companies in Wilmington, Billerica, and Burlington to help train 850 Massachusetts workers. The grants are part of the Governor's economic plan to make investments that will help create conditions for job growth focused on restrained spending and long-term and immediate investment, while preparing for the impacts of a softening economy. The Workforce Training Fund (WTF), administered by the Department of Workforce Development, under the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development, provides business and labor organizations with matching grants of up to $250,000 or more in certain cases to finance incumbent worker training. Cheryl Richter delivers her first baby - by phone

Wilmington native coaches woman through delivery of her own granddaughter

By STEPHEN BJORK

TAMPA, FL - Janiyah Tignor may have faced a very difficult time entering this world, if not for emergency medical dispatcher Cheryl Richter.

Richter, a Wilmington native and 1982 WHS graduate now living and working in Tampa, Florida, recently walked Tignor's near-panicked grandparents-to-be through the birthing process.

At approximately 4:00 a.m. on February 15 of this year, Richter was working the overnight shift at Tampa Fire Rescue 911 Communications Center when she received a call from Diana Donaldson. Donaldson's 19-year-old daughter was in labor, and the baby's head was crowning.

It would be a matter of minutes before paramedics would arrive on the scene, so Richter told Donaldson that she was going to be delivering her own granddaughter.

"I've already got help on the way, I'm going to tell you what you need to do for her," Richter told Donaldson.

Throughout the call, Richter's calm demeanor and simple directions kept Donaldson focused and composed. The amazing audio of the 911 call is available online at <http://www.tampabay10.com/video/news/?aid=59673&sid=78237>

There was just one brief moment of uncertainty for Richter. As the baby was coming out, Richter advised Donaldson to use extreme care, because the baby would be slippery and she wouldn't want to drop her. A loud thump is audible on the 911 call, just as the baby is coming out. Richter quickly asked if everything is okay, and Donaldson replied, "I dropped the phone, but I caught (the baby)."

The baby was not breathing, so Richter explained to Donaldson how to encourage it to begin breathing. Within a moment, the baby began breathing.

But the call wasn't over yet. Richter next instructed Donaldson on tying-off the umbilical cord.

It was all in a day's work, according to Richter. Emergency dispatch opera-

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

Railroad bridges aren't what they used to be

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Local drivers who travel on Butters Row are no doubt familiar with its old narrow railroad bridge. Many probably wonder how old the bridge is, while listening to the boards go "plop" as they drive across.

The answer is that it is an old-design bridge, but most of it is only about 30 years old.

Which doesn't make it any less frustrating when you meet someone traveling in the opposite direction. Someone has to back down.

When the Boston and Lowell Railroad was built in the 1830s, the railroad built bridges at all road crossings, in the interests of safety. On other early railroads, there had been many accidents with people being hit in their wagons or carriages.

For the better part of a century, the bridges were quite satisfactory. There were no grade-crossing accidents on that line, which is now the oldest operating rail line in the country. The Boston and Lowell became part of the Boston and Maine.

In the mid-1900s, though, time and traffic caught up with the bridges. With no less than eight bridges, Wilmington was faced with serious problems. The Boston and Maine Railroad owned all the bridges, and the railroad was sinking into insolvency. It had no money for maintaining the bridges.

The first big problem took place when a gravel truck broke through the Shawsheen Avenue bridge in 1958. Route 93 was under construction at the time, and a gravel merchant was hauling gravel from the old Billerica airport, at the end of Hopkins Street. No matter which bridge was used, the gravel trucks had to cross one bridge or another to get to the Route 93 construc-

AUTOMATIC ENROLLMENT

When new rules benefit both the employees and the employers, the benefits are solid. And that's what's happening this year with 401(k) retirement plans.

Up to now, employees had to choose to participate in the company's 401(k) program and many did not. New regulations allow the firm to enroll workers automatically, greatly increasing participation in the savings programs. (Employees can opt out of the plan within 90 days and recoup their contributions with no tax penalty).

Another goal is to encourage more investment into stocks, which generally outperform bonds and money markets over the long term. The new rules enable the default investment to include stocks, though workers can choose other options.

Increasing the participation of lower-paid employees can increase the benefits permitted to top-paid employees without creating a "top-heavy" situation.

Count on us to help optimize your company's retirement program. See us at:

There are two Bridge Streets in Wilmington these days, but it wasn't always that way. The bridge was demolished more than 20 years ago, with the intention of building a new bridge that would be part of a road system designed to by-pass Wilmington Center. That plan never came to pass due to the passage of the Environmental Protection Act.

Spinners to name Fenway Hawk

LOWELL - The Lowell Spinners, Class-A Affiliate of the World Series Champion Boston Red Sox, are looking for a name for the Red-Tailed Hawk, Fenway's newest attraction and the new mascot of the Yankees Elimination Promotion.

Fenway has been host to several legendary hawks over the years from Andre "The Hawk" Dawson to Ken "Hawk" Harrison. The Red-Tailed Hawk becomes the latest to patrol the Fenway grounds.

In an effort to name the now infamous hawk, the Spinners have partnered with the Boston Herald's Inside Track to offer fans a chance to name the bird. The winning entry will not only have their moniker associated with the newest member of Red Sox Nation, but will also win a great prize pack featuring tickets to a Red Sox/Yankees game, tickets to a Spinners game against the Staten Island Yankees, the opportunity to throw out a ceremonial first pitch at LeLachur Park and more.

"We have the best fans in baseball, as well as some of the most creative," said Lowell Spinners Vice President / General Manager Tim Bawmann. "The imagination of Spinner fans and Red Sox Nation should provide several great options to choose from. We look forward to a difficult decision."

All submissions should be sent via e-mail to elewis@lowellspinners.com or by mail to: Lowell Spinners, ATTN: Name the Hawk, 450 Aiken Street, Lowell, MA 01854. The deadline for all submissions is May 1, 2008.

The Spinners have lined up a Red-Tailed Hawk for fans to see in-person at the August 4 game through Jonathan Wood and his Raptor Project. Seats are still available and can be purchased through the Lowell Spinners ticket office by calling (978) 459-2255, visiting www.lowellspinners.com or visiting the box office at the ballpark, Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

altered mental state."

The woman was located the following night following her involvement in a car accident in Bridgewater. She was determined to have been of an altered mental state at the time of the accident and was taken into custody by way of a psychiatric committal.

Police are not releasing the identity of the suspect due to the nature of her committal, but did confirm that she is a resident of Woburn.

The Boston and Maine repaired the bridge, and posted it for a six-ton limit. Gravel trucks generally weigh 35 tons.

It took more than a dozen years, but the state eventually built a modern bridge a half-mile north, and the Shawsheen Avenue bridge eventually became a pedestrian overpass. At the same time, the bridge on Bridge Lane was demolished. The new bridge was intended to be part of a new road system that would have bypassed Wilmington Center. That plan, however, was spiked by the passage of the Environmental Protection Act.

With the state takeover of responsibility for the bridges, other bridges were replaced. The Lake Street bridge was closed for a couple of years after some youngsters burned the old bridge, turning the dead-end of Lake Street into a hangout.

The Eames Street bridge was replaced after a high load on a freight train crashed into the underside of the bridge. And the Burlington Avenue bridge was finally replaced after years of engineering studies.

The Butters Row bridge had a different kind of problem. In the late 1970s, the town undertook a $7 million trunk-line sewer project. With a few zigs and zags, the sewer pretty much follows the railroad track from Eames Street to the Route 129 bridge.

At Butters Row, the contractor ran into a problem. The plans called for the sewer to run only a few feet from the bridge abutment. The state Dept. of Public Works approved the plans, but after the bridge approach had been cut, state engineers determined that it would undermine the bridge abutment, making it unsafe.

Meanwhile, the contractor had another problem. In digging the trench, they encountered "boiling sands," sand that was so waterlogged as to be quite unstable.

Any time a construction project encounters unexpected conditions, a series of negotiations occur, with the contractor asking for a "change order." Contractors tend to be quite fond of change orders, since the work is done at a higher rate of pay than the bid work. In the instance of the Butters Row bridge, the negotiations were quite civil, though lengthy.

By the time the job was finished, the bridge had a whole new western abutment, and the deck structure had been completely replaced. The frustrating part of all this for townspeople was that it was put back in the same design as the ancient bridge. But nobody had expected to impact the bridge so extensively, so no plans were ever drawn up for a modern bridge. Today, the Butters Row bridge is Wilmington's last railroad bridge of old design.

Meanwhile, another contractor was working on the same sewer line, north of Burlington Avenue. The plans called for "jacking" the pipe under the new Route 129 bridge. In doing this, the contractor disturbed the boulders under the bridge to the extent as to create air pockets. A few months after the sewer line was jacked under the bridge, a giant sinkhole opened in the bridge approach. One motorist discovered the sinkhole the hard way.

The town and the contractor sued each other for over a million dollars. The contractor was seeking change orders, claiming the engineering plans did not show the soil conditions he encountered. The town won both lawsuits.

OPINION

From: The Editors Desk

by Stephen P. Bjork

The human side of war

LTC Peter Campbell is a 1986 graduate of Wilmington High School. I haven't seen him for nearly 20 years, but I remember him as a talented student and athlete, and a friend. And, no one who knows him will argue the fact that he is a natural born leader.

He is currently serving in Iraq with a small team of U.S. soldiers as advisors to an Iraqi Army unit. He and his team live and work with the Iraqi soldiers everyday.

Peter is extremely appreciative of the numerous CARE packages that he has received from Wilmington-based Local Heroes. He has taken the liberty of sharing some of the contents of those packages with the Iraqi soldiers and their families. As Peter wrote in an email to me, a fellow 1986 WHS alumnus, a little more than a month ago, "They need it a lot more than we do. You don't know the definition of joy until you have handed a kid their first lollipop."

In regard to the admirable work of the Local Heroes, Peter wrote, "Everything that they have sent me has helped make a small difference, one family at a time. So, thank you, from the bottom of my heart for supporting all of our troops and the Iraqi people."

The following letters were written by LTC Peter Campbell to his family here in Wilmington. They were not written with the intent of being published, but are being shared with Town Crier readers by Peter's mother, Antoinette Campbell.

March 28, 2008

Hi Everyone,

We had a great Christmas here. Great food in the chow hall - they went all out. Shrimp, eggnog, roasted turkey... your tax dollars at work! Many of you sent us packages and snacks for the holidays. We put it to good use and had a lot of good chow on Christmas and New Years. We also saved some for the Super Bowl. We were able to watch the game. It was about two in the morning. What a nightmare! I really felt bad for the Patriots; they had come so far this season.

We have had some setbacks in the last months. The bad guys have made some desperate moves and added some new methods to harm the Iraqi people. There is no end to what they will do or who they will use to destroy each other. Working and living with these guys really gives you a different perspective on just how painful things can be. Also makes you thankful for what we have and how lucky we are.

The Iraqi Army is coming along very well and the government has made a lot of progress, too. It is going to take a while. The government is having trouble getting electricity, fuel, and services to the people. The bad guys keep blowing up the oil lines and the power lines to make the government look bad - classic insurgent/anarchist operations. It is frustrating for us as well as the Iraqis. The people here are also nervous about our elections back home and are following it closer than we are. They know what is at stake. If we leave quickly, we will leave a void that will only be filled by bad elements. The people will suffer greatly. So they are concerned and ask us what the U.S. Army is going to do. Will we leave them high and dry, or stick it out for as long as it takes? The world will judge the USA by the way we exit this country and what Iraq looks like when we leave.

These last couple of months have been good for me. We were on a mission and flew over Baghdad to pick some guys up in the helicopters. As we were flying I saw a bunch of small kids playing soccer in the street. It reminded me of our neighborhood and our street hockey and baseball games. The same day, we flew north from Baghdad and there were two big fields set up with adult teams playing soccer. There were cars and families watching. That never would have been possible six months ago. The Iraqis love soccer. They have a national team that has been competing in the World Cup.

Last month we were on the east side of Baghdad, I was up early and the full moon was still up. I noticed the full moon wasn't full anymore and I was thinking, "Is there a lunar eclipse today?" Sure enough, there was. There was a full lunar eclipse in the morning; the moon gave way to a beautiful sunrise and the Islamic pre-sunrise prayers could be heard echoing throughout the city. I got to watch the whole thing from an old watchtower. A moment of peace in an otherwise crazy environment. So things are going as good as they can for me.

Renate [Peter's wife] and the kids are doing great in Kansas. They spent Christmas with her family up in Omaha, NE. The kids have more toys than they can play with. Raffe just turned 7 and Joe just turned 3. Lou will be 5 in May. It has been a cold and snowy winter there too. The kids have been having fun exploring the woods behind our house and walking on the ice in the creeks. I know all of you can't wait for the spring this year. Thank you for your letters, e-mails, packages and kind words. I miss you and hope to see you when I return.

April 3, 2008

Hi everyone,

I am sitting outside in the dark writing this with my little lamp. It is a dark night. Things are going well. These last two weeks we had a lot of action and excitement here. The Iraqi Army did pretty good with a lot of our help.

Two weeks ago, I was up in the town of Taji, north of Baghdad in an Iraqi camp. It is getting warm here. There was a small swamp and the frogs were all up at night croaking away. I made my guys stop so I could listen. It reminded me of home in the spring and our swamp.

I hope all is well. Renate and the kids will come see you for the Fourth of July. We will all come for Thanksgiving. So don't worry about trying to fly out. I know it is hard for you. If you want, you are welcome; I just don't want you to kill yourself traveling if you don't have to.

Did you see the pictures I emailed to the twins? I think those two guys look like Uncle Joe and Leo.

Take care.

Love,
Pete

Betsy's Best Bets

First Amendment First

Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has. (Margaret Mead)

During the last presidential election someone told me a joke that I loved. It was about an elderly woman, way up in Vermont, who had never voted. When asked why, she said "It only encourages them."

The popular health author Dr. Andrew Weil thinks that one week out of every month we should not listen to the radio news or watch TV news or read the newspaper. In other words chill out, drop out and unwind politically. Sounds good to me but maybe four weeks out of every month would be better. I admit it, politics gets to me - it doesn't take much to get me ranting and raving.

A while back a friend of mine, during a discussion that was becoming an argument, said she was going to vote for Mitt Romney, knowing that I despised him. Looking back I mark that moment as the beginning of the end of our friendship! Where you stand politically says so much about your character, your individuality, your frame of mind and mettle.

Our obligation, I suppose, is to stay well informed and to be involved at some level, in some way in your community and country and be able to balance your social responsibilities and sanity. To do that I've adopted the point of view that politics is entertainment - it can be fun and educational at the same time. If an interesting public figure is making an appearance in the Boston area I try to attend. I've walked in more than one protest march and taken part in many rallies that support causes that I believe in and had a good time while I was at it. On the other hand, when it comes to politics being educational, one organization comes to mind first and foremost.

The Ford Hall Forum has been around for one hundred years, making it the oldest free public lecture series in the country. Started in 1908 as Sunday evening public meetings, the purpose was to provide an impartial platform for ideas, interests and concerns of the community. During all of those years, the wide range of lecturers representing all layers of society has encouraged freedom of speech, the most important function of the Ford Hall Forum. Speakers are engrossing, thought-provoking and usually controversial, spurring debate and discussion. Many of the most well-known leaders of our time, over one thousand going back throughout the century, have spoken at Ford Hall Forum. Needless to say, space does not allow me to list even a fraction of the impressive names on that list, so I'll pick and choose a few of them that I would have given an arm and leg to have heard, in order of importance and personal interest to me: Margaret Mead, Winston Churchill, Robert Frost, R. Buckminster Fuller, B.F. Skinner, Stephen Jay Gould, Ayn Rand, Linus Pauling, Jonathan Kozol, John Kenneth Galbraith - I could go on and on. Here are some of the speakers that I've heard in recent years: Barney Frank, John Dean, Alan Dershowitz, Harvey Silverglate, Cokie Roberts, Edward M. Kennedy, and Nina Totenberg, to name just a few.

Attending lectures may sound pretty dry or even dull. But most of the speakers who I've heard were so captivating that you could hear a pin drop while they were talking. Yes, escapism has its place (we have pathetic Hollywood movies for that); but lectures can be stimulating and stirring - a kind of aperitif for the mind.

What I like the most about the Ford Hall Forum Lecture Series is the question and answer segment at the end. Now this is when things get interesting. Usually a long line starts to form behind the microphone as soon as the speaker is finished. I will say, these lectures attract a brainy and opinionated audience - there is no shortage of straight forward questions. Yet, beyond the pure enjoyment of the mood created by some of the most engaging speakers, I'm also aware of where I am, too. When I'm sitting in the balcony of the Old South Meeting House, thoughts of The Boston Tea Party and the Boston Massacre cross my mind. I find myself picturing the early colonists and what they looked like gathered in this same building, listening, debating, contemplating and ultimately igniting the American Revolution. And when I'm sitting in Faneuil Hall watching and waiting for the lecture to begin, I'm moved knowing that the very first Town Meeting in America was held right here.

The Ford Hall Forum Lecture Series has kept a kind of continuity of fostering free speech, from one hundred years ago to the present day, providing a public service of great importance and necessity. Of course, there's also humor. In spite of the seriousness of the discourse, a lot of joking and jesting has always been a part of "the game of politics" as it is often called, so there are more than a few laughs, mostly during the Q&A time.

When Richard Nixon left office, Paul Zepp, the Pulitzer Prize winning political cartoonist, was reported to have commented, "I'm going to miss him - there was so much to make fun of." Ah yes, think of all the raw material for comedians and satirists today - and lecturers, too. The Ford Hall Forum is the best show in town. Don't miss it.

Letters to the editor

McCoy won't roll over to tax-and-spend people

Dear Editor,

I find myself responding two weeks in a row to an anonymous letter in the "Your Two Cents" section in the April 9, 2008 edition. The anonymous individual states, "Mike McCoy must have his eyes on a US Senate seat. This year his manufactured campaign issue is support for an elected planning board. But when the exact same question came up at the town meeting in 1999, he spoke against it and helped vote it down. Apparently he was against it." This anonymous individual is trying to show that I'm like John Kerry, changing his mind.

To Mr. or Ms. Anonymous, you're right, I was against the election of a planning board back in 1999. At that time, a developer had an axe to grind against the planning board and brought forward this article. Now, almost a decade later in 2008, I've changed my mind. A lot has happened in close to ten years. Some people change their minds overnight. However, the Planning Board is powerful. They make decisions that affect the quality of life of the community. It's one of the most powerful boards in town and if they make a vote and folks aren't happy with it, we've got no recourse. The only person they answer to is the town manager. If I, Mike McCoy make a bad vote, I get voted out of office. The general public has no say relative to the Planning Board. What's the problem here? I was trying to put a non-binding question on the ballot. Simply put, should the members of the planning board be elected by the general public or remain appointed by the town manager. Simple - let the people decide. Respectfully, that didn't happen. The majority of the board of selectman voted against it. Instead, the majority of the board chose to bring the issue to the upcoming town meeting. As you well know, life is a compromise and that's how it went. So, when this goes on the town meeting floor, it was Selectman Newhouse, Selectman Fiore and Selectman Cimaglia who brought it there. I was simply looking for an opinion poll to be set at the annual town election rather than at the town meeting.

I find it a coincidence when a couple of weeks ago at a joint meeting between the Board of Selectmen, School Committee, Finance Committee, Building Committee, town manager, and the superintendent and all of a sudden, I'm getting sharply criticized was whether or not we should spend $60 million for the construction of a new high school and millions more to update other facilities. I asked at that meeting, "How can we go to the voters and ask them for more money when we're in a recession, and people are losing their homes? The high cost of food, fuel and simple necessities are out of reach."

I was the only one at that meeting trying to make sense of the tough economy we're in and they want us to RAISE taxes? What do some of these individuals think? Because I'm running unopposed and I should just roll over and spend millions of dollars we just don't have? That is the very reason I'm running unopposed because I just don't roll over like most of these tax-and-spend individuals. There is no magic credit card. It's unfortunate that this meeting did not get the local press coverage it should have received. And if people were to watch it on WCTV, they wouldn't believe what they'd hear.

Only two and a half years ago, the voters rejected the notion of raising more taxes for a new library. The economy wasn't in great shape back then. Today, the economy is more in the toilet and these individuals want to spend a minimum of eight times more than had been proposed for the new library. Any notion of a new high school at this time is simply not within our means. Once the economy turns around a bit, and we get more of our fair share on local aid, that may be the time to consider a capital project of this magnitude.

Residents can ask questions of the developer and environmental consulting firm.

Why is it that most of the people in Wilmington care enough about their dogs, that they keep them fenced in or tied up?

Why is it that a family on Cook Ave. continues to let their aggressive dog loose to roam at will?

Why is it that after being quarantined at least once, for biting someone, and the family cited for numerous leash law violations, this dog still roams? Wilmington

Hey Verizon FIOS! Are you really out there? I have trouble getting a human when I call, especially trying to navigate the tricky waters of your prompting system. Anyway, my question is...why does it take two sometimes three clicks to get to check email, compose, folders etc. I always get my inbox when I click on any other option and then have to click again to get the option (like folders). U out there? Wilmington

"A big, big thumbs up to you dog walkers and dog owners who pick up after their dogs! We appreciate it and are always glad to see the little bag at the ready in case you need it! You other dog owners (and we do see you) that look the other way while the dog does their business, then take off, shame on you. Get a bag! Just common courtesy." Wilmington

Letter to the editor

Thank You, Tewksbury Public Library

Dear Editor, I would like to thank Library Director Jennifer Hinderer and her staff for allowing us to use the Library to host our recent art exhibition. This exhibition featured the work of the 12 students from Tewksbury Memorial High School who won awards at the Annual Globe Scholastic Art Fair. The exhibit included sculptures, charcoal and pencil drawings as well as watercolor and mixed media. We opened the exhibit with a brief reception on Monday April 7, 2008. The reception afforded the artists and the faculty from Tewksbury Memorial High School the opportunity to talk about their work.

We thank the Library staff and administration for their continued support during our recent Literary Festival and throughout this school year. We look forward to working with them as we launch the 2008 Summer Reading Program.

Governor Deval Patrick was the keynote speaker at the Wilmington Rotary Club luncheon meeting at Rocco's Restaurant on Wednesday. While there, the Governor had the opportunity to meet Jane and Melanie DePasquale. Melanie is one of the beneficiaries of Wilmington's new full-day kindergarten program. The program is available to Wilmington residents completely free of charge and was made possible, in part, by one of Patrick's educational initiatives.

Malden Catholic students inducted into National Honors Society

MALDEN - Over fifty Malden Catholic students were recently inducted into the National Honors Society. The students hail from over 20 local communities surrounding Malden. The National Honor Society was established in 1921 and is a recognition program for American high school students who exhibit extraordinary achievement in scholastics, service, and character.

Malden Catholic students become eligible for National Honors Society after completing three semesters and achieving a cumulative average of 88 percent or better. Those who qualify are notified of their eligibility and are invited to apply. Students apply for membership by providing data attesting to their character, leadership potential and service. Applications are reviewed and voted on by a five-person, faculty selection committee.

Wilmington and Tewksbury each to receive over half a million from state

BOSTON - Chairman James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington) is pleased to inform his constituents of the Chapter 90 local transportation funding for Wilmington and Tewksbury. With the finalization of certain provisions in the Transportation Bond Bill during the House Session on April 8th, $150 million will be allocated to the state under Chapter 90 funding. Wilmington is receiving $579,190 in funds while neighboring Tewksbury is receiving $637,948.

Chapter 90 is a fund that was established in 1973 to reimburse cities and towns for money spent to improve local infrastructure. This money can be used on local roadways, sidewalks, bridges, road building equipment, and related engineering services and expenses.

Representative Miceli worked with state legislators and the Patrick Administration for the recent approval of the Transportation Bond Bill. He believes the funds will be crucial for cities and towns across the Commonwealth as we enter the spring construction season.

"The Chapter 90 money is critical for major local transportation projects and for the maintenance and repairs of the roads and bridges. I am pleased that my vote will allot this much needed money to my district," Miceli said.

2008 Avon Walk For Breast Cancer

Wilmington residents commit to help end Breast Cancer

WILMINGTON - Karen Dicecca and Kristin Duffy, both breast cancer survivors, and Carla Duggan of Wilmington will join thousands of women and men in the upcoming Avon Walk for Breast Cancer Boston, raising funds and awareness that will help defeat breast cancer and support those facing the disease. Dicecca, Duffy, and Duggan - THE 3 D'S - will participate in the noncompetitive event by completing a marathon (26.2 miles) or a marathon and a half (39.3 miles) over the weekend of May 17 & 18.

"Thanks to thousands of people like THE 3 D'S, we are able to save lives by providing significant funds for vital breast cancer research as well as access to care, screening, support services and education," said Carol Kurzig, Executive Director of the Avon Foundation, the public charity that produces the events. "The continued commitment of those who participate in the Avon Walk for Breast Cancer events gives us hope that one day we will know a world without breast cancer."

The Avon Walk Boston is one of nine weekend walks taking place in 2008. Every walker commits to raising at least $1,800 in donations, and each Avon Walk attracts several thousand participants from across the country. To help support their fundraising campaign, a dance will be held on Friday April 18 (details below). Funds raised by THE 3 D'S and the thousands of other Avon Walk participants are awarded by the Avon Foundation, a 501(c)(3) public charity, to advance access to care and finding a cure for breast cancer, with a focus on the medically underserved

The Avon Walks are non-competitive weekend fundraising walks for all fitness levels that require a significant commitment from participants. Each walker will undertake months of training to prepare to tackle the course, which offers the option of covering a marathon (26 miles) or a marathon and a half (39 miles) over two days. Among the walkers' ranks in 2007 were men and women of all ages, including more than 1,700 breast cancer survivors, from all 50 states and numerous other countries. This large, diverse group was united by their shared desire to eradicate breast cancer and help those touched by the disease.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(never known to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my request. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this request; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this request in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish.

God Bless

Poetry Contest winners

Congratulations to the following winners in the library's annual poetry contest. This year's poetry theme was "apples" inspiring over 200 creative writers to submit entries. The winners and those who received an honorable mention are invited to Poetry Night on Wednesday April 30th at 7 p.m. to read their winning poems.

This year's poetry contest judges were Library Trustee Eileen MacDougall, Friends of the Library Advocacy Chairman, Stephen Bjork and Teen Services Librarian Brandy Danner. Thanks to our judges and to Administrative Assistant, Gloria Corcoran, for organizing all the entries.

Winner - Adult category - Michael Barcellos

Paradoxe de Pomme
Forbidden temptress, evil seed Sweet flesh dare corrupt the innocent Eve All mankind lay in your wake to save our souls a saviors life would take

A poison potion vessel's treachery William's arrow aim, periled progeny

Proof you've earned your devilish hue? Which shoulders conscience, gets their due?

A parasite lair, symbolic mystery Isaac's fall for gravities history You physicians cure, is your heart so demure?

A toddlers treat, or Princesses death sleep A teachers pride, of a loved ones' eye A perfect food?

For those with bravery!! Behold suspect! Your paradox in history!

Winner - High School category - Melissa Mahoney (Grade 11)

Untitled

I threw apples at your window because there was no snow for snowballs. They sailed; small green flags waving, smooth hulls against the azure sea-sky. Think, and again, think, that I might see a most beloved face against the embattled pane.

I threw apples at your window, but their shining red hope lay bruised and mottled at my feet.

Winner - Middle School category - Sarah Johansson (Grade 8)

What the Smell of Apple Pie Means to Me
The sweet, sweet scent of apple pie just out of the oven, cooling on the counter, is like all of the pleasures of the world, together in one aroma. All lovely memories mashed together to create the unmistakable smell of the steaming dessert. It smells like the feeling of cheering someone up or being cheered up yourself with a smile. It resembles the feeling of entering a warm house after being out in a snowstorm and having the cold melt away. It's like laughter and love and hugs and kisses. It is happiness and surprises friends and family That is what the smell of apple pie means to me

Winner - Grades 4-5 category - Connor O'Brien (North Intermediate School)

"The Big Apple" Pie

The apples cut up,
And put in the pan.
The dough was fresh,
And not from a can.

It was put in the oven,
And cooked too high.
Once taken out,
It was the most delicious pie.

So all the people
sat down to have a slice.
They were friendly to each other,
And all treated nice.

Black skin, white skin,
Red skin, and all kin,
Dug into "The Big Apple" pie,
Because all are welcome in.

Winner - Grades 2-3 category - Rose & Jill Roche (Shawsheen Elementary)

What Fruit Am I?

I am a fruit, red, green or yellow. I am surely a yummy little fellow. I will melt in your mouth, Without a single doubt! You can go pick us in the fall, Just make sure you take us all. What should you make out of me? Cider & Pie! Why don't you try? Now I will give you the key, Of what tasty fruit I could be!

I AM A DELICIOUS APPLE! YUM!

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Jen Hinderer

Free film: Women of the Revolutionary War Times

Do you like books and reading? Do you enjoy making a difference in your community? Then Tewksbury Public Library invites you to join our dedicated crew of volunteers! By sharing your time and talent with us, you can make a big difference in the quality of library service in your community.

Currently the library has opportunities for a few lucky volunteers. The program is open to short and long-term volunteers ages 14 and up. Tasks include sorting and putting away items and keeping the shelves in order. Ideal candidates are responsible, able to alphabetize and understand the Dewey Decimal system (we can refresh your memory if you're rusty), and willing to offer their time for 2-3 hours a week. You can volunteer to complete community service hours, or just because you enjoy helping people and learning about libraries.

Our volunteers enjoy perks like:

- acquiring new skills and gaining recognized work experience
- serving in their own neighborhoods
- keeping up with the latest books
- getting a glimpse at the behind-the-counter world of the library

All those interested in volunteering must complete an application form and a Criminal Offense Record Investigation (CORI) form. Forms are available at the library or on our website, www.tewksburypl.org. Once you have completed an application, you will be contacted to set up a schedule and orientation. For more information ask for our Volunteer Coordinator, Elizabeth Berlik, at 978-640-4490 x207.

If you're reliable, orderly, and good with books and great with people, Tewksbury Public Library wants to hear from you!

Upcoming events:

On Wednesday, March 26th at 6:30 PM join Financial Advisor, Cynthia Sadezicz, for some light refreshments while learning about Money Management and Long-Term Care. To reserve a seat call Cynthia Sadezicz, Financial Advisor, at (781) 933-2067 x175.

Come laugh with us on Saturday, April 26th at 1:00 PM for "Better Than a Poke in the Eye," a Free Comedy Show with Rebecca Rule. A New Hampshire native and noted humorist, Rebecca Rule is best known for her live presentations of humorous NH stories. She has entertained audiences from Stratford to Keene, prompting New Hampshire Magazine to name her "Thalia: The Muse of Comedy" in its list of notable NH muses. Rebecca Rule tells funny, true(ish), close-to-home stories, collected all over the state. Find out about Catherine's battle with mosquitoes, who's firing shots from the banks of the Cuckermouth River, how come the Chief of Police is sitting in his cruiser half the night at the top of Hoyt Hill, and what some folks think ought to be the new state motto. This event is open to all ages. Free tickets may be picked up at the Reference Desk.

On Sunday, April 27th at 1:45 PM Dan Tremblay will be showing his film "Women of the Revolutionary War Times." This film is part of a monthly series of local interest movies and includes re-enactors from several Colonial and British encampments in the Essex and Middlesex County areas. You'll see interesting perspectives from women's standpoint on what life was like in 1775 New England. Free and open to the public.

For more information on these events or to suggest a program, please call the Reference Department at 978-640-4490 ext.207.

375 attend Temple Grandin Conference sponsored by DMR and T.H.E. FARM

"Animals in Translation & Autism & Asperger's Syndrome Conference"

Dr. Temple Grandin's unique and impressive seminar - an outstanding success

TEWKSBURY - "I did not speak a word until I was 3 1/2 years old... and I can clearly remember the frustration of not being able to talk. I knew what I wanted to say, but I could not get the words out - so, I would just scream. I was diagnosed autistic, and doctors recommended that I be placed in an institution." Those are the words of Temple Grandin, who is an associate professor at Colorado State University, and is known world wide for her brilliant work and inspirational seminars. As she spoke in Tewksbury, she went on to discuss her frustration that many autistic / Asperger children are "thrown" into special ed classes where they sit there and "rot." She explained that there are future Einsteins (Albert Einstein likely had Aspergers) - kids with 150+ IQs - sitting unchallenged in stagnant classrooms. What each of these children desperately need, she maintains, is one-on-one work with a good teacher. The worst thing you can do with young autistic children is let them sit in a corner and watch TV.

Dr. Grandin kept her audience captivated throughout the full-day conference and presented her compelling case regarding the importance of early detection and intervention for children with behavioral problems indicative of autism.

"What I love about listening to Temple Grandin," says DMR Occupational Therapist, Casey Quirk, "are her humor, her straight forwardness, and her ability to connect with the audience. She says it like she thinks it. It's so refreshing."

Casey had attended a Grandin seminar two years ago and worked on the conference team. She strongly agrees with Dr. Grandin's no-nonsense approach to guiding children - especially autistic children. What is often lacking in child-rearing today, says Casey, is an emphasis on some of the important behavioral norms that were standard in the 50's and 60's (when Dr. Grandin was raised). Many parents do not set consistent behavioral boundaries. Dr. Grandin emphasized that all children need to be taught manners and turn-taking.

ing. "As a child I was expected to sit at granny's formal Sunday dinner table for 20 minutes, and I did," Grandin said.

In addition, children need to learn how and when to say 'please' and 'thank you' and 'hello.' It is critical to their ability to function effectively in society and to get and keep good jobs in the future. She went on to stress that, in order to do this, we need to establish reasonable guidelines while providing necessary support and setting high expectations.

Dr. Grandin ended her long day with a visit to the barn and grounds at T.H.E. FARM. A group of volunteers, staff and clients gathered there to give her a special tour of the facility and to discuss T.H.E. FARM's equestrian therapeutic programs, which concentrate on some of the key developmental skill issues associated with autism. Equine therapy gives autistic children a sense of themselves, their bodies, and increased contact and interaction with the surrounding world. The effect of a horse's rhythmic walk offers benefits unattainable through traditional therapies often improving psychological, cognitive, behavioral and communication functions for clients of all ages.

Dr. Grandin's visit also included a trip to the outside training rink, where she was able to interact with, several of the horses used in T.H.E. FARM's riding classes. Grandin's affinity with the mounts was obvious. Those in attendance universally expressed their appreciation for this rare chance to personally discuss with her the opportunities, challenges and rewards inherent in T.H.E. FARM's unique equestrian programs.

The seminar was held at Tewksbury Hospital, Saunders Building Auditorium, Tewksbury, MA.

About T.H.E. FARM, Inc.:

T.H.E. FARM, Inc. is a non-profit organization, that provides therapeutic equestrian programs to the clients of the Tewksbury Hospital as well as public riding programs and special events to individuals of all abilities. T.H.E. FARM, a premier accredited NARHA Center, is dedicated to providing an environment where therapeutic and equine education come first. As a premier accredited center, T.H.E. FARM with its volunteers and supporters has created and maintained a standard of excellence in providing much needed equestrian therapeutic services to individuals with disabilities. In addition, T.H.E. FARM's Strongwater site provides a public venue for equestrian events. For more about T.H.E. FARM, visit our website www.t-h-e-farm.org.

About Department of Mental Retardation & the Northeast Region Occupational Therapy Department:

The Department of Mental Retardation (DMR) is committed to providing supports to people with mental retardation in creating innovative and genuine opportunities for them to participate fully and meaningfully in, and contribute to, their communities as valued members. DMR's Autism Division offers services to children with autism between the ages of three, (3) and eighteen (18) years. DMR is committed to providing training opportunities for supporters to facilitate learning and growth in knowledge and ability to provide needed services.

About NARHA: NARHA was formed in 1969 to promote equine assisted activities for individuals with disabilities. At more than 700 member centers, a total of 36,000 people find a sense of independence through involvement with horses. These member centers range from small, one-person programs to large operations with several instructors and therapists. In addition to horseback riding, a center may offer any number of equine activities such as driving, vaulting, trail riding, competition, grooming, work, or stable management. Through a wide variety of educational resources, the Association helps individuals start and maintain successful riding programs. There are more than 30,000 volunteers, 2000 instructors, 5,700 therapists, horses, and thousands of contributors from all over the world helping people at NARHA centers.

Volunteer for the elderly

Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley is recruiting volunteers to help elders throughout the area with activities that will enable them to remain safe and independent in their own homes. Volunteers are needed to provide the following services:

Transportation - includes driving elders to medical appointments.

Companionship - includes keeping company with elders who live alone and/or helping with day-to-day tasks. Advisors - providing elders with information about health insurance options.

Advocates - focused on nursing home residents who need someone to champion their needs.

ESMV offers a mileage reimbursement along with orientation, training and ongoing support for each role. Please call 800.892.0890 ext. 445 for more information.

Spring into shape at the Burbank Family YMCA

READING - Summer is just around the corner and the Burbank Family YMCA wants you and your family to get ready to hit the beach. Take advantage of these rainy spring months inside the recently renovated Burbank YMCA. Try new classes like Snorkeling, Suddenly Spring, and Zumba! These are just a few of the wide variety of classes and programs available at the Y.

Have a blast in the water and learn the basics of snorkeling through a variety of games (all ages are welcome).

Your little ones can also get into the spirit of spring with Suddenly Spring (ages 3-4 yrs). In this class children will plant flowers, make tissue paper art, and enjoy other spring projects. Adults looking for a new and fun way to burn some calories try out Zumba! This class is a dance aerobic workout to Latin music that will leave anyone smiling.

Registration for the Spring 2 Session is now open. Classes fill up quickly so beat the rush and sign up today. Don't miss out on your chance to be a part of the exciting classes offered this spring at the Burbank Family YMCA. Everyone deserves a chance to look their best this summer.

For more information about the Spring 2 Session pick up a brochure at the front desk or www.ymcaboston.org/burbank and click on membership to view the Spring 2 Brochure.

Book Store Next Door approaches anniversary

WILMINGTON - It really is Spring! The Book Store Next Door (to the Wilmington Memorial Library, 183 Middlesex Ave.) is just a few weeks shy of its first anniversary! With the weather turning warmer, think of us as you do your Spring cleaning. We're eager for your donations during store hours or contact Leslie Dietrich, 978-657-6536, email lesd4@verizon.net for pick up.

Think gardening, outdoor building projects and activities, gifts for children's party favors; the book store has something for everyone. Many thanks to all the volunteers, shoppers and donations combined to make effort fun and successful!

Mark your calendars for anniversary celebration additional hours: Sunday, April 27, noon-4:00 and Monday, April 28, 4:00-6:00. And of course the Book Store Next Door is open every Saturday 10-4:00.

Hayden selected as Boardroom Leadership Scholar at Suffolk University

BOSTON - Richard Hayden of Wilmington was named a Boardroom Leadership Scholar at Suffolk University's Sawyer Business School. Twenty graduating MBA students were selected as members of the Boardroom Leadership Scholars program, a unique initiative within the Sawyer Business School.

Each year the Suffolk MBA program invites a nationally known business leader to serve as the boardroom leader. As part of this year's program, Josh McCall, chairman and CEO of Jack Morton Worldwide, a leading global experiential marketing agency, led a discussion with the boardroom scholars on how to succeed in a global economy.

To be considered for the Boardroom Leadership Scholars program, students must meet the requirements for graduation; write a 500 word essay on what it takes to be a leader in today's global business environment; and demonstrate leadership capability, skills and interest. Twenty students are selected each year.

For your health

Everyone is invited to the Health Fair

Tewksbury The Tewksbury Board of Health and the Senior Center will be sponsoring its first Health Fair on Wednesday, April 23. Residents are encouraged to attend and enjoy a number of health screenings and preventive health measures, including free hearing screenings, dietitian/pharmacists services, blood pressure screening, eye screenings, and chair massage. More than 30 local health-related and health-minded companies have already signed on to attend.

The Fair will be held at the brand new Senior Center, located at 175 Chandler Street, and will run from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The Fair is open to all and will provide health safety and preventive educational information.

The Tewksbury Board of Health and the Senior Center will hold a "Health Fair" for the Whole Family on Wednesday, April 23, 2008 from 3:00 PM to 7:00 PM at the New Senior Center located at 175 Chandler Street Tewksbury.

For more information please contact Barbara Westaway at the Board of Health 978-640-4470 or email bwestaway@town.tewksbury.ma.us

Don't miss it; your health could depend on it.

Women's empowerment group

A Women's Empowerment Group is being offered by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc. on Monday nights from 7:00-8:30 p.m. starting Monday, April 21 until summer. Women go through many stages of life from young adulthood through marriage and childbearing years (if they chose that route) to mid-life and beyond. At some stages, their lives focus on developing their own strengths and fulfilling their own needs or, at other states, on caring for others sometimes at their own expense. This Women's Empowerment Group is designed for women who would like to learn how to:

- Increase self-respect
- Heighten self-awareness
- Nurture their own growth and potential
- Reach desired goals
- Say "no" without guilt
- Maintain healthy boundaries with family and friends

The group will be led by Susan O'Neill, LICSW, who has worked helping many women become the women they want to be. The fee will be covered by health insurance or may be paid by the participant. To register call the Wilmington Family Counseling Service at 978-658-9889, preferably between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

current site conditions, after which EPA can determine where gaps exist that require additional studies and field work.

The remedial investigation will also determine possible risks posed to human health and the environment by any contaminants present in the nearby groundwater, soils and air. Lastly, with EPA and MassDEP oversight, the settling parties will evaluate various methods for the cleanup of the contamination, which poses unacceptable risk.

Please join Representatives from the EPA, MassDEP, Town of Wilmington and Wilmington Environmental Restoration Committee (WERC) in the Wilmington Middle School Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. to learn about EPA's site investigation and voice your concerns about environmental issues related to the Olin Chemical Superfund site.

For more information, call: Sarah White, EPA Community Involvement Coordinator 617-918-1026; Jim DiLorenzo, EPA Remedial Project Manager, 617-918-1247; Joe Coyne, MassDEP, 617-348-4066

Krochmal Farm

in an April 3 grievance hearing before the Board of Health. At times testy and confrontational, the meeting secured a goal of keeping the pig manure tank levels no higher than one-third through regular schedules of composting, spreading of manure, and hauling loads to the wastewater treatment plant.

"I think they are moving forward in a positive way," Health Director Lou-Ann Clement told the Crier last week.

"He is working with the town," said Krochmal attorney Frank DiLuna, of client John Cave. "He has been and is currently working with the town and he will continue to do so."

Clement sent a letter of non-compliance to Cave in February that included a list of requirements and restrictions, many having to do with a pig facility built without a building permit approximately three years ago. As part of his rights under that order, Cave requested and was granted a hearing. His attorney, Frank DiLuna, an agricultural attorney from Woburn joined him at the table along with his father, John, the former operator of the farm.

The group began by giving the board a progress report, primarily focused around the building permit issues.

The farm completed the building permit application, though the permit was not yet issued at the time of the meeting. The farm also submitted design plans to the board, statements from structural engineers, and passed inspections and codes on ventilation, ceiling height and window space. The electrical permit cannot be issued until the building permit is issued, so that item is on hold even though an electrician has inspected the site. A pest management plan, according to Clement, is missing a few items but overall on the right track for reducing rodents.

The farm is still working on a nutrient management plan with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), but that plan is on hold temporarily until the ground thaws and the soil may be tested.

A nutrient management plan analyzes the soil content and the nutrient (or manure) content, and compares the two to determine an appropriate vegetative crop for the farm to grow. The farm currently grows pumpkins on fields that the farm spreads manure on, but that may not be the best crop to utilize the high phosphate and nitrogen levels in pig manure.

Cave also asked for consideration Vis a Vis a few items having to do with partially dilapidated greenhouses, multiple cars on one farm license plate, and restrictions to the amount of composting of pig manure the farm may do.

The pig manure collects in the lower level of the pig barn by falling through slats in the floor. That lower level, with its concrete walls, acts as an enormous storage tank. Last summer and autumn odors associated with the manure became so strong in the surrounding neighborhoods, and reportedly as far away as Wilmington and Andover, that complaints began streaming into the Health Department and a resident-initiated website, TewksburyOdor.org, galvanized residents into action.

Investigations have led to the understanding that the odors emanated from a full tank that was then treated with a chemical to help break down the material. That chemical reportedly did not work as well as the farm had hoped and instead increased the smell.

The farm uses a mix of composting, land application of manure, and hauling material to a wastewater treatment plant to manage the levels in the tank. At the meeting, Board of Health officials tried to increase the number of loads hauled away, an expensive proposition already at 5,000 gallons every three weeks. Board of Health member Ralph McHatton asked about reducing the source of the manure, i.e., reducing the number of pigs being cultivated.

Cave responded that like a sub shop trying to get as many sandwiches out the door, he is just trying to "push out as many hogs a week as I can."

Hogs need to grow for about seven to eight months before ready for the market.

"Going forward we are looking to abate the odor," said

McHatton during the meeting. "That is what we are trying to achieve."

Once the ground softens, the farm will begin land applications of manure, spreading it onto fields and then plowing it under. Usually within the same day. Land application and composting will be limited to periods of good weather as rain and thermal inversions tend to increase odors.

Cave agreed to compost pig manure daily seven days a week, spreading on the fields several times a week, but only after notifying the Board of Health first and plowing it under within 48 hours, and will continue hauling away material every three weeks unless stopped by the wastewater treatment plant.

Krochmal farm will appear before the Board of Health in four weeks to discuss the progress of the permits and the nutrient management plan.

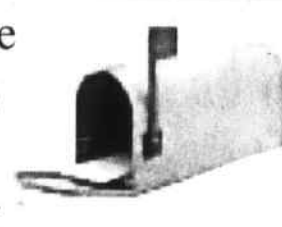

The new members of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce are (l to r, front) First VP Linda Covino of Realty Executives; Wayne Grout of Teradyne; Executive Director Nancy Vallee, Second VP Sheila Kaufman-Bissett of the Aleppo Shriners; President Teresa Burns of Wilmington Health Care Center; Colleen McCann of Hub International; and Holly Nahabedian of Danversbank; (middle) Doug White of White's Physical Therapy & Bodymechanix; Diana Ganz of the Burbank YMCA; (rear) Sharon Stewart of Analog Devices; Stu Neilson of the Town Crier; Paul Dickey of Commercial Business Products and Gerald Greeley of Winchester Hospital family Medical Center.

"Being on the other end of the phone is difficult," Richter said. "We want to be there, holding their hands."

Once the paramedics arrive on the scene, the call ends and the dispatcher moves on immediately to the next call, and to the next emergency situation - invariably without experiencing any closure on the situation; without knowing the fates of the people whose very lives depended on them.

Cheryl is not the only member of the Richter family to be involved in law enforcement. Her brother Robert is Deputy Chief of the Wilmington Police Department.

"The dispatchers are unsung heroes," said Deputy Chief Richter. "They are a vital link in the public safety forum. They play an extremely important role in how public safety provides services to the community. Many times firefighter's and police officer's safety is dependent upon the information being provided by dispatch. Unfortunately, they are always inside and are not prominent in the public eye like uniformed firefighters and police officers. It is all too easy to forget about the important role they play in our professions. Fortunately, the Town of Wilmington is blessed with a group of talented and dedicated dispatchers who do a tremendous job for us and for the community."

Cheryl Richter has dealt with untimely deliveries before, but never before had she been called upon to coach someone through the entire process.

"This is the first time I've delivered a baby from start to finish over the phone," Richter said. "It was an incredible experience. She did everything she was supposed to do."

Donaldson, her daughter Jacquell, young Janiyah, and great-grandmother Barbra Fountain paid Richter a visit on April 15 to thank her for what she did. They presented Richter with a bouquet of flowers and invited her to hold Janiyah.

"Holding any baby is amazing, but to hold a baby that you helped bring into the world is incredible," Richter said.

Their visit coincided with National Telecommunicator's Week. Each year, the week is set aside to honor the important, but often-unsung work performed every day by 911 dispatchers.

"I just happened to be the 911 operator to pick up that call," Richter said. "Any other 911 operator would have done exactly the same thing."

Carli gearing up for first Marathon

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

As some people prepare for the day off from school or work on Patriot's Day this Monday, Wilmington resident Mike Carli will be competing in his first ever Boston Marathon. Carli, who grew up in Stoneham, MA, will run the 26.2 mile marathon for his charity, the Boston Medical Center.

When Carli was at the gym working out one day, he said this is when he started to think about competing in the 112th annual lengthy road race.

"One day at my gym, Fitcorp, I saw a flyer in the locker room that read, 'Is your fitness goal to run the Boston Marathon?'" said Carli. "I continued to read the flyer and learn more about the marathon training program that Fitcorp offered. After reading the flyer again, I immediately decided that finishing the Boston Marathon this year would be my New Year's Resolution for 2008."

Carli said he started his scheduled training on December 8th of 2007, and he completed a run of 12 miles. Although Carli has been competing in various road races ranging from five miles to half marathons since 2006, this day was his first real day of training for the Boston Marathon. Since December he has ran over 325 miles. While he did most of the training on his own, he said he also took part in a running group offered at his gym.

"I am running for a charity, Boston Medical Center, and I joined the running group hosted by my gym. Fitcorp sponsors group long runs for the charities involved in the Boston Marathon each Saturday morning at 8 a.m."

"Long runs consisted of mileage between 10.5 miles and 21 miles. During the week, I ran anywhere from three to ten miles. I suffered from a foot injury in mid March though, and I missed an entire two weeks of training. I was still able to cross train by lifting and running in a pool at the gym. The good news is that I was running at a 100 percent a couple weeks ago, and I am ready to go for the Marathon."

After Carli graduated from Stoneham High, he went to Bentley College and then moved to Wilmington with his parents Donald and Debra, and his sister Jennifer. He said they will definitely be supporting him at the epic race on Monday, because he said he will need their support when he has to run through the difficult parts of the marathon route, such as Heartbreak Hill.

"It's funny, because the first time I ran up Heartbreak Hill, I asked, 'that was it?'" said Carli. "However, I had only run a few miles before encountering the three miles of incline that makes up the enormous hill. On the day when I ran 21 miles as part of my marathon training, I met the base of Heartbreak Hill at mile 18."

"It ended up being extremely tough to push myself up the hill after I had ran my legs 18 miles on pavement. So now I'm thinking now that Heartbreak Hill is going to be the most difficult part of the race. I'm hoping the last mile will be the easiest because of the sheer adrenaline and excitement from the crowd and the people supporting me."

On Monday, Carli expects that he will be up very early, and he also will be sticking to his regular morning breakfast.

"Something tells me that I will be up at 4 a.m. because I won't be able to sleep the day of the marathon," said Carli. "Before every long run, I eat a bowl of oatmeal and a banana. It's worked so far so I plan on sticking to the same meal this time."

Since Carli has never ran in the Boston Marathon before, he said he has never experienced the feeling people get once they finish running, but he said he expects that to be an awesome feeling come Patriot's Day.

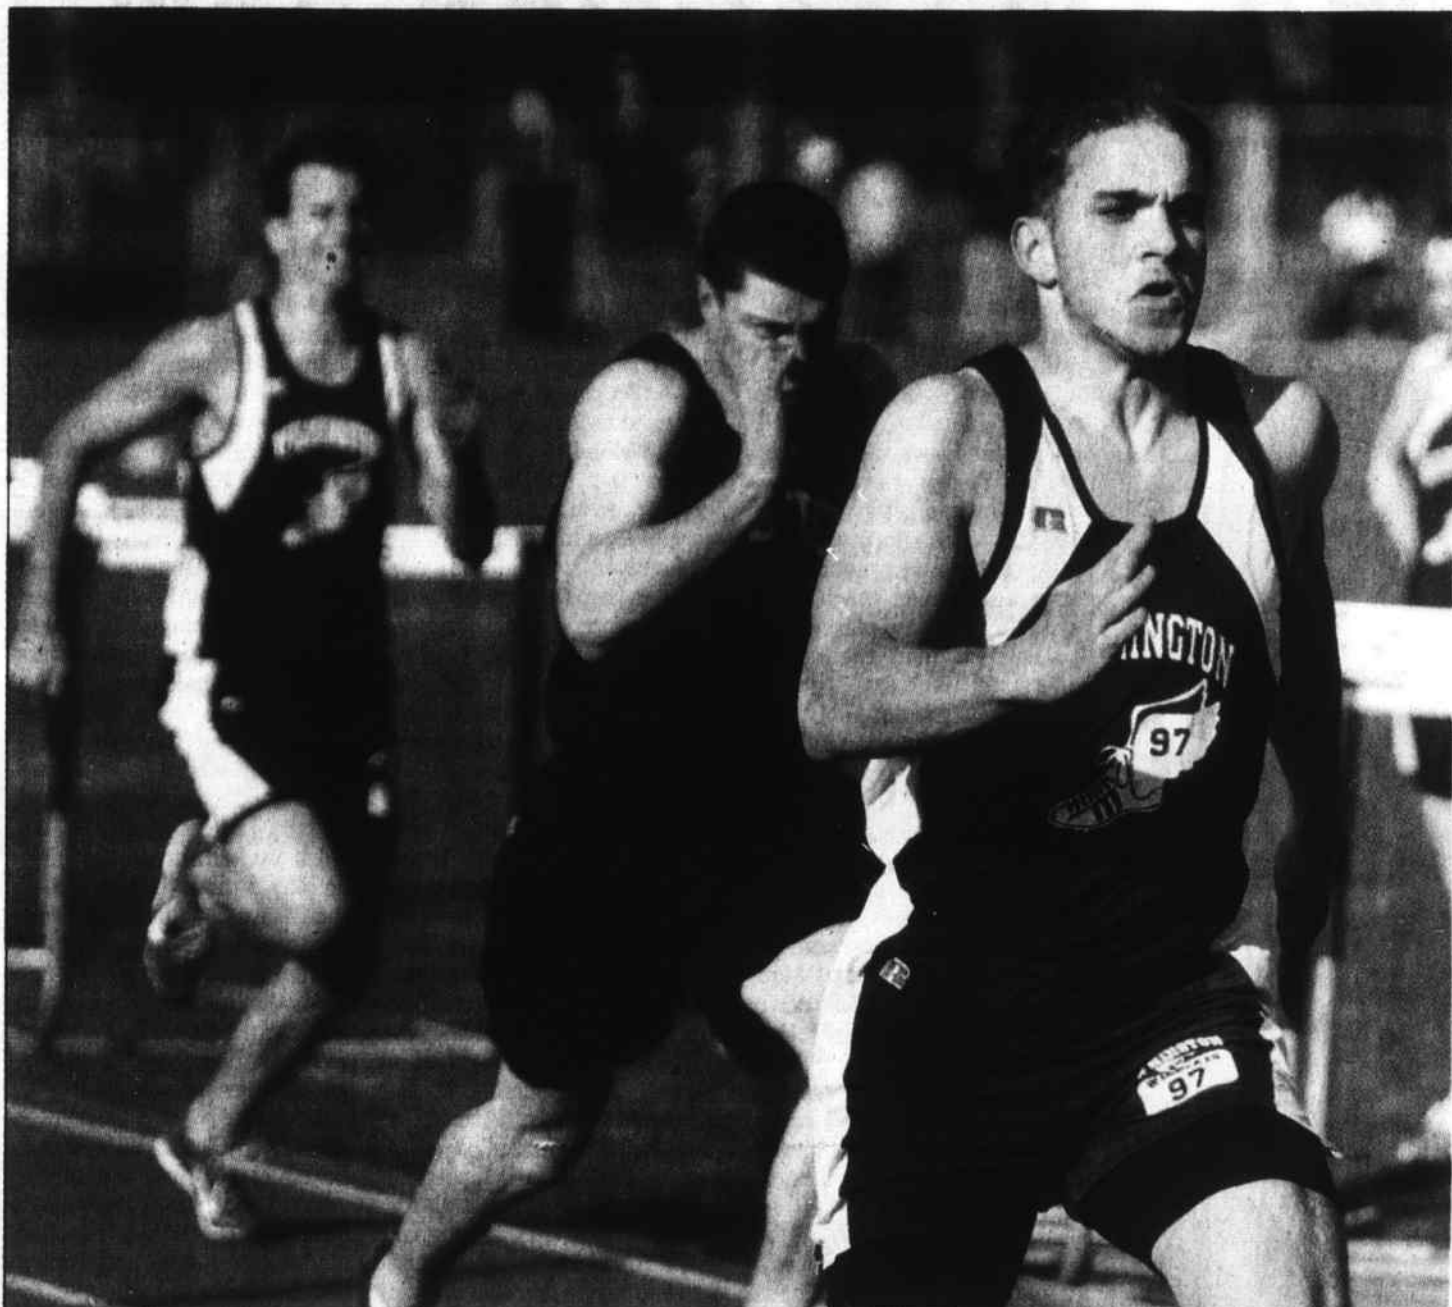

"I'm sure that crossing through the finish line will be a great feeling," said Carli. "It must be or people wouldn't put themselves throughout all the pain. I also guess it will take two to three weeks until I am 100 percent recuperated."

After running in the marathon on Monday, Carli will be back to work on Tuesday at his commercial real estate company, Jones Lang LaSalle. He works on a team that manages Class A commercial space, and the business park consists of seven buildings totaling over one million square feet of office, lab, and retail space.

Before getting back to work though, Carli is looking forward to running in one of the world's largest marathons.

"I guess you know that you've become a runner when you answer, 'I can't wait to push myself to the point where I think I'll collapse only to reach deeper inside of me and run even harder,'" said Carli jokingly. "I'm assuming the 'runner's high' in the last miles of the Boston Marathon will be some-

Wildcat Boys are off and running to a 6-0 start

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High boys track just keeps rolling along. The Wildcats picked up three more wins this past week to improve to 6-0 on the season. Last Thursday afternoon at Wilmington High the Wildcats swept a tri-meet against Cape Ann League opponents Masconomet and Pentucket, downing Masco by a score of 89-56 and Pentucket by a score of 115-30.

The Wildcats followed up those impressive wins with what might have been an even more impressive showing considering the circumstances against Ipswich on Monday, once again at home. Despite missing six regulars from their lineup, the Wildcats would not be denied as they dominated their way to a 98-47 victory.

Senior Nick Farnsworth continued his outstanding season and was a multiple winner for the Wildcats, picking up victories in both the discus (140-6) and the javelin (172-0). Nate Clarkin followed Farnsworth in the discus with a second place finish and a throw of 109-9, and the Wildcats swept the javelin with seniors Mike Pizzotti and Tom Barry grabbing second and third place finishes.

Clarkin added to his impressive second place finish in the discus with a win in the shot put event on a throw of 47-7, and he was followed by senior J.J. Lyons in second place.

Senior Craig Bush took second place in the pole vault for the Wildcats, while Tony Nelson and Caleb Rogers took first and second in the high jump. Nelson top height was 5'6, while Rogers followed close behind at 5'4.

Wilmington also took first and second in both the long jump and triple jump events, with Jimmy DiNuccio taking first in the long jump with a distance of 19-2, followed by Nick Jannone at 17-8. In the triple jump, Nelson also took first with a distance of 39-5, while Tom Barry followed at 36-1.

While the field events went very well for the Wildcats, they were at least equally as effective in the running events, starting with the 300 hurdles where Barry took first in a time of 43.6, followed by Jon Parrella in second with a time of 43.8.

Wilmington also finished first and second in the 800 meters and the 200 meters with Mike Condell finishing first in the 800 in a time of 2:08.3, followed by Caleb Rogers with a time of 2:10. In the 200 Jannone won in a time of 24.4, while freshman Marc Shibilis finished second in 25.1.

The Wildcats took first and third places in the 100 meters dash as well as the 400 meters. In the 100, senior Matt Figueirido finished first in a time of 11.3, while Shibilis finished third in 12.3. In the 400 Jimmy DiNuccio scored an impressive victory with a time of 52.9, while Bobby Folk switched from his usual 800 meters and finished second in a time of 55.2.

Freshman Zack Sears finished second in the 200 meters in a time of 11:00, while the Wildcats got another second place finish in the 100 meter hurdles when Jon Parella finished in 17.8.

The 4x100 team of Nelson, Jannone, Nathan Downs and Figueirido won in a time of 46.5, while the 4 x 400, which was made of athletes who normally do not run the even were unable to come up with a victory, but earned high praise from Wilmington coach Bob Cripps.

DJ Livermore, Sears, Nelson and Barry made up the team and posted a time of 3:50.

"They all finished in under 60 seconds which was very good," Cripps said. "They were very happy with themselves and they should be."

In the Masco/Pentucket meet the Wildcats had several athletes either qualify for the state meet or improved their seeding in the meet with a great performance.

Tom Barry qualified for the javelin with a throw of 151-11, while Craig Bush did the same in the pole vault with a vault of 10-0. Barry and Jon Parella also qualified in the 300 hurdles with times of 42.3, and 42.8, respectively.

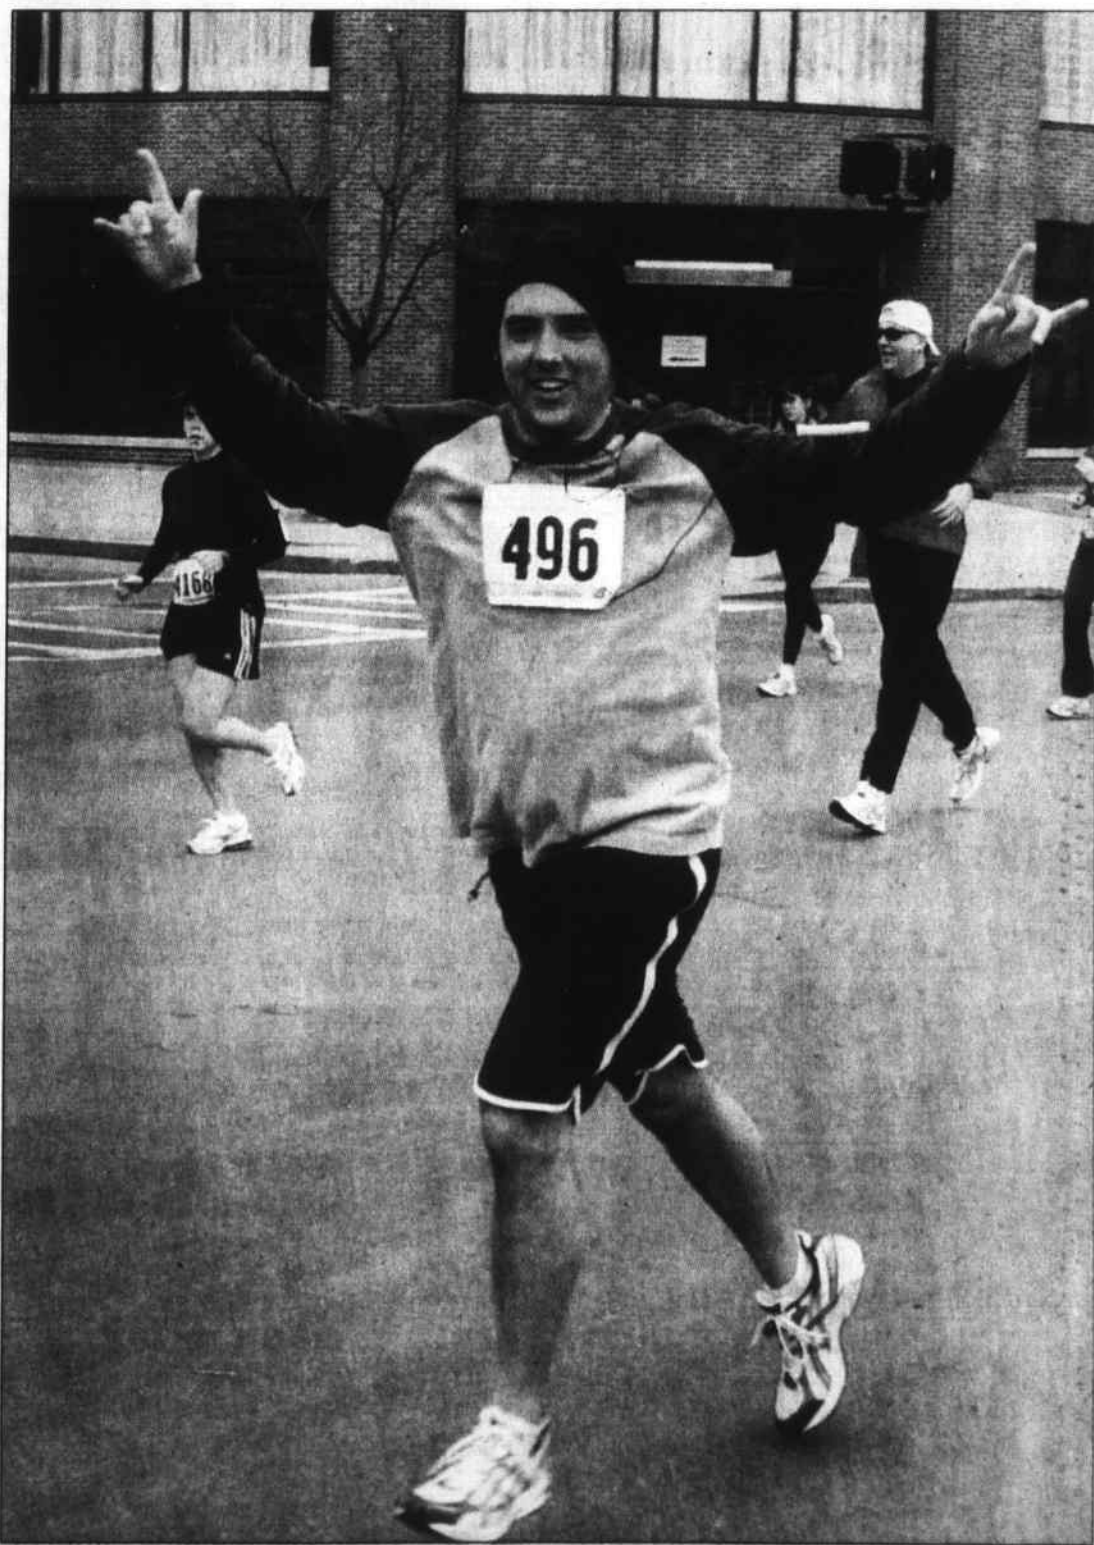

Matt Figueirido qualified in the 100 with a time of 11.2, while Jimmy DiNuccio did so in the 400 in a time of 52.4, and Mike Condell improved his seed in the 800 meters with a time of 2:01.2.

The 4x100 team of Tony Nelson, Nick Jannone, Nathan Downs and Figueirido qualified with a time of 46.0, while the regular 4 x 400 team of Barry, DiNuccio, Caleb Rogers and Condell qualified in 3:36.5.

On Wednesday the Wildcats were set to take on Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham in a tri-meet at Wilmington High. Results were not available at press time, but Cripps knew going into the meet that the stakes were very high between his team and Hamilton-Wenham.

"Wednesday will decide the league champion," Cripps said. "It should be a very close meet, with maybe five points separating us."

Fireball pitcher too much for softball team

By JAMIE POTE

Tewksbury Memorial High School senior right hander Marissa Fiorentino tossed a 1-hit shut out, while striking out 18 batters to keep the Redmen softball team undefeated with an 8-0 win over Wilmington in a nonleague game played Tuesday afternoon at Aprile Field.

Florentino gave up a lead-off infield single to Kim Ciampa, and after that the Wildcats barely made contact against her as she struck out seven batters in a row at one point. Besides the one infield hit, she hit a batter and walked two.

"She had 18 strikeouts so it does get demoralizing after a while," said Wildcat head coach Bob Surran. "We were able to stay with her for a while, but in the sixth inning we had chances to make plays but didn't make them and we could have gotten out of that inning without giving up any runs."

The game was scoreless until the top of the fourth inning. Brianne Welch lead off the inning with a triple to the right-center gap and scored when Kelsey McLaughlin grounded out to shortstop which ended up to be the game winning run.

The Redmen added three more runs in the top of the sixth inning before breaking the game wide open in the seventh. Melissa Popp, Fiorentino and Lauren DiCredico all had singles to load the bases for Allison Frazier who cleared the bases with a triple to the left center gap, making it 4-0 after the team's sixth at bat.

Then in the top of the seventh, MacLaughlin and Danielle DePierro singled sandwiched between a walk to Mary Lane. Fiorentino walked with the bases loaded to score McLaughlin and that was followed by a two-run single by DiCredico and a RBI ground-out.

Wilmington (2-2) left three runners on second base, yet never got a runner to third base. Brittany McLaughlin made the best contact with a solid line drive to center field in the first inning.

Defensively Wilmington really struggled making one official error but a half of dozen other hits should have been executed for outs which would have limited Tewksbury's scoring chances. That said, center fielder Nicole Bockus made a nice running catch, and shortstop Jackie Zaremba was very solid handling several groundballs, including a nice play going to her right.

"We are still a work in progress but we are going to work a lot on just basic fielding and throwing, fielding and throwing and catching the ball over the next few practices," said Surran.

Earlier this week, Wilmington defeated Burlington, 4-2 and Boys Lacrosse team enjoys first two wins

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High School boys lacrosse team made history this past week, picking up the program's first ever win. The Wildcats defeated Manchester-Essex, 10-9, on the road last Friday afternoon.

"It was nice to get a win to go with the level effort we have been putting in at practice and games," said head coach Mike Fay. "The defense played well as a unit. For those that do not understand lacrosse, (giving up) nine goals is not a lot."

Fay went on to pinpoint several individuals who really played well helping the Wildcats earn that first varsity victory.

"Timmy Cushing was a monster on the field playing long stick middle," said Fay. "He even picked up his first point of the year with an assist. Matt Derian consistently broke down the Manchester-Essex clear allowing us to keep the ball on offense. We were missing a few plays due to injuries so Dean Moran stepped up and helped contain the Manchester-Essex offense."

Derian and Sean Fay led the way with four goals each. Kevin Fitzpatrick added a goal and two assists, while, Frank Sorrentino (1 goal, 1 assist) and Nick Robarge (2 assists) also had multiple points. Sean Tavares, Chris Thibault, Brett Robbins and Cushing rounded out the scoring with one assist each.

On Tuesday, Wilmington won its second game of the season knocking off North Reading, 9-8. Corey Groves scored three goals, and Brendan Collins scored his first varsity goal.

Last Wednesday Wilmington

fell to Ipswich, 10-8, in a very close game.

"Ipswich is a tier two Cape Ann league team and was a good challenge for us," said Fay. "We played hard and we continued to focused on ground balls. We had too many penalties and that cost us. We had one extra man opportunity and scored. Playing man down as frequently as we did, hurt our ability to keep the Ipswich team off the score board. Overall, the effort was great, but we need to remain in control."

Defensively, the team has really played well and showed that in this loss to Ipswich.

"(Defensively) Matt Kincaid, work very hard all game," said Fay. "Andy Wells and Brian Fitzpatrick picked up the slack after Max Wilkins went down with knee injury in the first quarter. Jon Kincaid owned the face-off and help keep the ball in Wilmington's sticks."

Offensively, Sean Fay had a monster game scoring six of the team's goals. Fitzpatrick contributed with three assists, while, Matt Derian chipped in with a goal and an assist. Corey Groves scored the other goal, and Kevin Flanagan, Sorrentino and Jon Kincaid had one helper each.

And last Tuesday, Wilmington lost a 14-13 overtime heart-breaker to Lynnfield.

"The team worked on ground balls and focused on controlling the faceoffs after the (season's) opening game," said Fay. "It was important to have a good outing after the Newburyport loss. It was unfortunate to lose in overtime, but I think this is a huge step forward as far as us becoming a good lacrosse team."

Matt Derian, Sean Fay and Kevin Fitzpatrick all had three goals each, while the latter added an assist. Jon Kincaid had two goals, while, Groves and Tavares had one goal each.

Wilmington returns home on Friday with the second meeting of the season with Manchester-Essex, before going on the road next Wednesday to face Woburn in a non-league game.

Girls Lacrosse

The Wilmington High School girls lacrosse team lost both of its games this past week, first to Georgetown, 18-5, and then to Newburyport, 11-9.

Lisa Rooker scored three goals in the loss to Georgetown, while, Katelyn Hayes and Lizz Chin had the others. Jacqui Lyman and Chin had one assist each, while, goalie Ally Robbins made nine saves.

Colleen Magee had a huge performance in the team's loss to Newburyport, figuring in all but one of the team's goals with four tallies and four assists. Jill Ennis and Rooker each had a goal and two assists, while, Ashley Gonzalez tallied three goals. Lauren Camilleri had one assist, and Robbins made 11 stops in the net.

Wilmington returns to action Friday night at North Andover with the first draw set for 7:30 pm.

Varsity Baseball

The Wildcats started the season off on a tough note, falling to the top rated team in all of Division 2 in Tewksbury, 8-0, last Wednesday. Senior Mike Ferriero led off the season and the game with a home run over the left field fence as part of a four run inning. All-Scholastic right hander Scott Oberg got the win for Tewksbury giving up three hits, while walking two and striking out 11 in five innings of work.

Carlton Lentini, Michael Cabral and Kyle Moon had singles in the losing effort.

"They are probably the top team in all of Division two and Oberg is certainly a top flight pitcher," said head coach Aldo Caira. "That first inning they put us in a hole, but I don't think the 8-0 score tells the whole story of the game. The inning they scored five runs, we botched a double play, and then the next batter hit a groundball and if we had turned that double play, I think the groundball would have been played cleanly and we would have been out of the inning down just a few runs. It was the first game of the season and it was OK. Obviously we're not happy with the loss, but it gives us something to build up on."

On Saturday, Wilmington picked up its first win of the season knocking off Shawheen Tech, 7-2. The Wildcats trailed 2-1 going to the seventh inning, before scoring six runs, led by two-run doubles by Cabral and Moon. Michael Murphy was 3-for-4 and his sophomore classmate Dan Cushing also had multiple hits ending the day going 2-for-4.

"We had them on the ropes," said Caira. "We had runners on base I think every inning but one and then it finally clicked in the seventh inning. We had a couple of good sacrifice bunts and then Cabral and Moon had big doubles and Danny Cushing had a nice single."

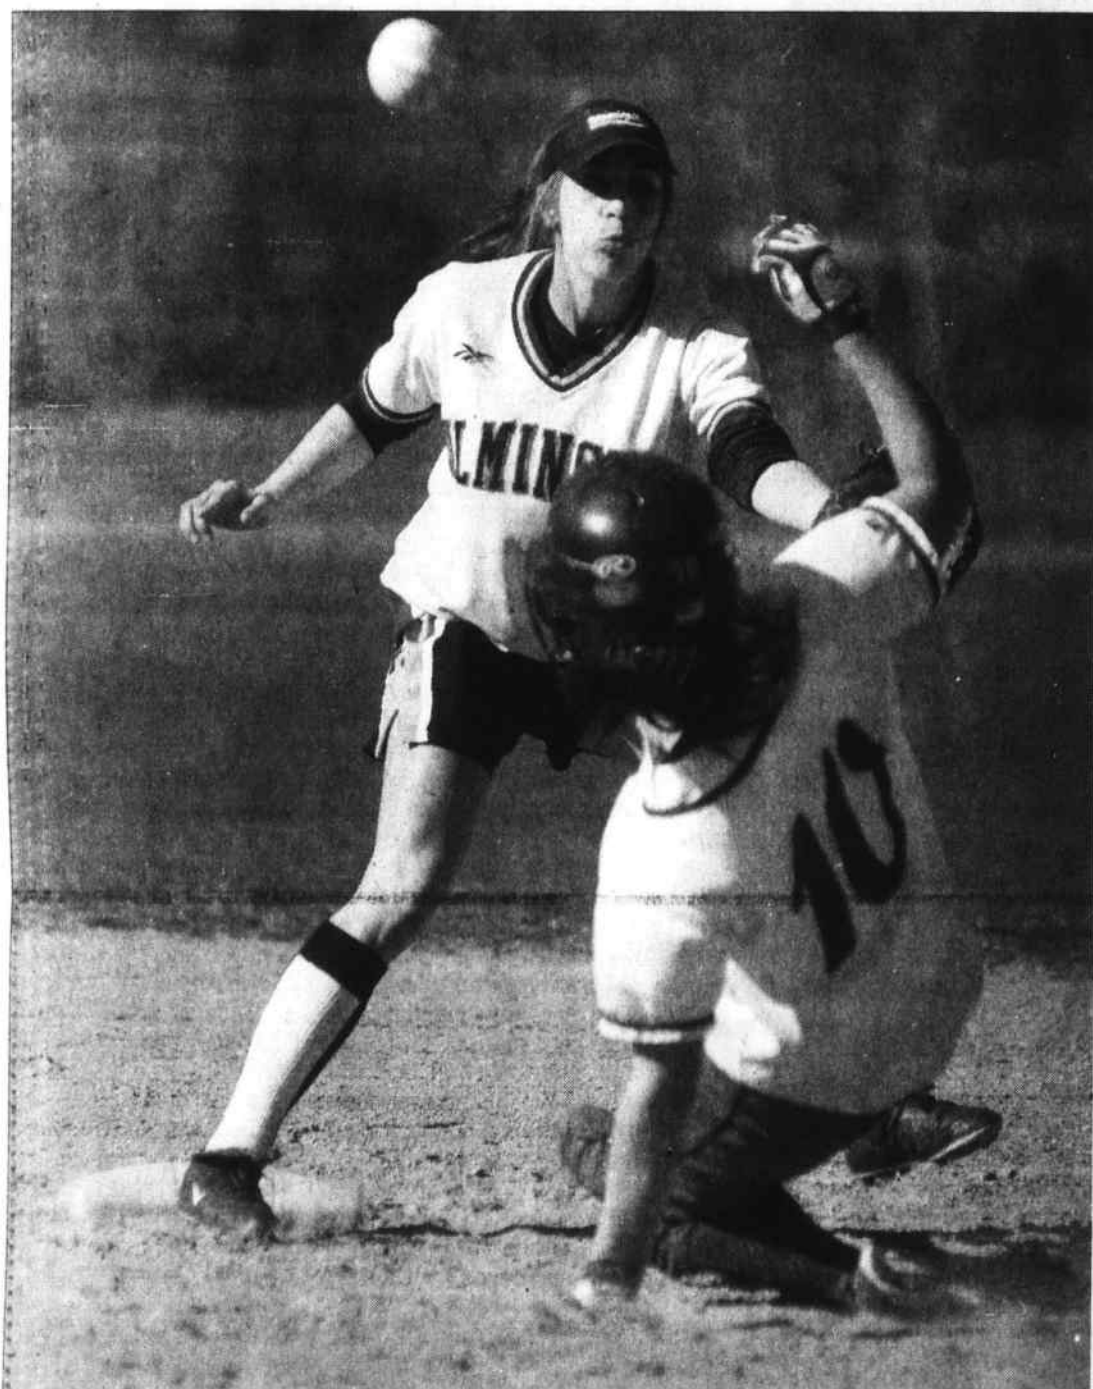

Senior Kevin Skinner got the complete game victory, allowing two earned runs on five hits, without walking a batter and striking out three.

"Kevin was the story of the game," said Caira. "He pitched very well. He hit three batters, but he didn't walk any."

On Tuesday, the Wildcats were defeated 12-2 to North Andover, putting the team's record to 1-2 on the young season. Senior Eric Siegel led the way offensively going 3-for-3 with a single, double and a home run. Mike Scola also had an extra base hit, with a double. "It was one of the worst games I've been associated with," said Caira. "We showed no energy at all. I was disappointed because I thought we could play with North Andover. There were a few bright spots. Eric Siegel broke out had three hits including his first home run, and both Andrew Valente and Carlton Lentini pitched well in relief."

Wilmington is back in action with a road trip to Lynnfield (4-0) on Saturday morning, before coming home Tuesday and next Thursday for 10:00 am contests with Ipswich (2-2) and Newburyport (1-3).

"Lynnfield and Ipswich are two of the top teams in the small school and it's not going to be easy," said Caira. "We just have to go out and play. We have to buckle down defensively and get the bats going. If we do that we'll be OK."

Girls pick up first victory

By JAMIE POTE

The Wildcats girls track team picked up their first win of the season, after dropping the first five meets. On Monday, Wilmington just edged out Ipswich, 73-72, in a thrilling victory.

"This is our first win of the season and it was very exciting. There were many highlights and obviously every point counted," said head coach Tom Bradley.

A handful of athletes were double place finishers which ultimately became the difference in the meet. Kayla Hanson had a big and very impressive day. She won the hurdles (16.4) and was second in the shot put and pole vault, and joined Stacey Hoang, Julie Braid and Heather Kealos to win the 4x100 relay race. Hoang also took a second place in the 100 (14.1), while Braid took a second in the 200 (29.7) and a third in the triple jump (30 feet) as those four girls counted for 21 of the team's points.

Natalie Russo, Allison Dancewicz and Carmen Palumbo were also double place finishers. Russo won the two mile, and also was part of Wilmington's sweep in the 800 taking second, with Charlotte Jensen ahead of her and Kristi Wilmington High senior Kayla Hanson was very busy in last week's home track meet competing in four events.

Adley right behind for third. Dancewicz was second in the hurdles (52.7) and triple jump (30.7). And Palumbo was first in the long jump (15.3) and third in the hurdles (17.0) as the three of them combined for 20 of the team's points.

Other first places came from Stephanie Baima in the high jump (5-0), Colleen Kennedy in the mile (5:49) and Jill Fudge in the 200 (29.4). Rounding out the scoring included Ali Lyman with a second in the two mile, Leah Potcner with a second in the discus (60-11) and two third palces from Teresa McMahon in the javelin (76-5) and Krista Murphy in the shot put (24-4).

"It was a fabulous day for the Wildcat girls," said Bradley.

Last Thursday Wilmington was defeated by both Pentucket, 83-62, and Masconomet, 97-48, in a tri-meet. Against Pentucket, first places from Wilmington included Dancewicz in the 300 hurdles (52.8), Erin Conway in both the shot put (29-11) and javelin (86-2), Hanson in both the pole vault (8-6) and hurdles (15.7), Baima in the discus (67-9) and high jump (5-0) and Julie Braid in the triple jump (31-3).

In the loss to Masco, Conway won the shot put and javelin, Palumbo won the long jump (15-5), and Baima (high jump) and Hanson (hurdles and pole vault) also won.

"(The highlights included) the hurdlers (sweeping), the milers all had their season bests, and freshman Allison Dancewicz competed in four events and did well in each one," said Bradley.

WHS Girls Tennis

Lady Wildcats off to torrid start

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High girls tennis team has gotten their season off to a very good start with a 3-1 record to this point, having added two more victories to their total this past week with wins over Cape Ann League rivals Newburyport and North Andover.

The Wildcats most recent victory came in very exciting fashion on Monday afternoon with a 3-2 win over North Andover. Picking up wins for the Wildcats were Erin McMahon in second singles, Jessica Burke in third singles and the first doubles combination of Ivy Co and Steph Woods.

McMahon won a thriller, taking the match in three sets 7-6 (7-4), 6-7 (8-10), 6-3. Coach Kevin Welch has been impressed with McMahon's improvement this season.

"Erin won a match that last year she would have lost," Welch said. "The level of tennis maturity she has gained over the last year has been a big boost to our team. Every time she steps on the court she continues the process of learning how to be successful and win matches."

Burke has had a splendid season so far, and the North Andover match was no exception as she rolled to a 6-3, 6-4 victory. This came on the heels of a 6-1, 6-2 win over Newburyport last Thursday.

"Jessica played very well. She is turning into a solid 3rd singles player for us. As only a sophomore she has won some big matches for us," Welch said. "She is still learning and improving. Hopefully we can continue to work together to help her game grow."

Co and Woods have mastered the art of winning close matches this season and they did so again in this match, winning in straight sets by a score of 7-5, 7-6 (7-4).

"Ivy and Steph continue to play close matches and win," Welch said. "They are aggressive and don't seem to have any fear on the tennis court. If they are ahead or behind they play with the same intensity and that is why they continue to win close matches."

Senior captain Danielle Miles was not able to come up with a win in her match, falling by a score of 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, but Welch was still very pleased with her effort.

"Danielle played well," Welch said. "She had a good game plan, but in the end she was beat. I cannot be upset with her effort. She played like a senior captain should."

Against Newburyport last Thursday the Wildcats pulled out another close 3-2 victory with McMahon (6-2, 6-1) and Burke (6-1, 6-2) each coming up with straight set victories. Co and Woods also earned a victory, coming from behind to win 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

"This was a good win for our team," Welch said. "Across the board the girls played really well. It was a true team victory."

Welch reserved special praise for his seniors, Danielle Miles and Taylor Kindred. Miles was not able to pull out a victory in her first singles match and Kindred fell in second doubles along with Jackie Mailey by a score of 6-3, 6-3. But it was not their results in their matches that Bloom has been so pleased with.

"None of this would be possible without them," Welch said. "Although they both lost their matches the team is not as strong without them. Their leadership on and off the court is showing as we come up with some of these early season wins."

McDonald takes third in all-around competition

The Gymnastics and More Junior Olympic Team levels 4-8 and the Prep Op Team competed in the Beach Party Meet hosted by Exxcel Gymnastics on the weekend of March 30th. Kaitlyn McDonald, a Level 5 gymnast from Wilmington, placed third all around with a score of 35.475. She placed third on floor (9.25), and fourth on both balance beam (9.15) and uneven bars (8.775). Kaitlyn also won a specialty award for balance beam entitled "Loveliest" Arabesque". The Gymnastics & More Level 5 Team Placed 3rd!

Middle School team takes championship

The Wilmington Tier II Middle School Hockey Team recently completed its season by winning the Championship. Wilmington finished the season 8-1-2 with its only loss to a very talented Masco team.

The team had wins over North Andover, North Reading, Westford, Haverhill, Londonderry NH, Salem NH, Woburn and ties against Windham NH and Masco. Wilmington entered the playoffs as the number 2 seed and faced Haverhill in the first round who they beat 6-1 on goals by Jon -Luke Dee and Stevie Ciampa who had 2 goals each and single goals from Zach Blanch, Nick DiRienzo and Brian Nazzaro.

The win moved Wilmington into the Championship game against Masco who they had lost to and tied during the regular season. Wilmington jumped out to an early lead at 3:41 of the first period on a nice goal by Zach Blanch with assists to Jon-Luke Dee and Dylan DiNatale. Wilmington had many chances in the first and second periods to open the game up but they hit the post time and time again.

The game stayed 1-0 until the 9:32 mark of the 3rd period when Masco capitalized on a missed clearing attempt and tied the game at 1-1. Wilmington showed they were ready for the battle and got the goal right back at the 10:48 mark of the 3rd period on a great unassisted goal by Stevie Ciampa who followed his initial shot on net and put the rebound home. Masco had their chances to equal the score but the great goal tending of Mark Connolly and Matt Curran wouldn't let anything by them.

The horn sounded and Wilmington celebrated their first Middle School Tier II championship with the team piling on top of the goalie. They knew they had done something none of the previous Wilmington Middle School teams had done and that was win a championship.

The championship was truly a team effort because without every player's hard work and commitment the win over Masco wouldn't have been possible. Congratulations are in order for the following players: Zach Blanch, Jon-Luke Dee, Dylan DiNatale, Dan Luise, Brooks Carter, Stevie Ciampa, JB Tompson, Brian Nazzaro, Nick DiRienzo, Ryan Kennedy, Killian Smith, Nolan Gaffey, Alexandra Fletcher, Tom Townsend, Andrew Sylvia, Mark Connolly, Matt Curran, Anthony Castellano, Andrew Camilleri, Tyler Trites. The team was coached by Jim Dee and his assistants Mike Ciampa, Mike Luise, Mark DiRienzo and Kevin Blanch.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Rams boys lacrosse team off to a flying start

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The season could not have gotten off to a better start for the Shawsheen Tech boys lacrosse team as they rolled through their first five games of the season by an average score of 13-2, showing their dominance over the rest of the Mass Technical Lacrosse League.

While Rams coach Chuck Baker was obviously very pleased with his team's overwhelming start, the game that pleased him most so far this season was the Rams' most recent conquest, an 8-7 win over MTL rival Blackstone Valley, on Monday afternoon at the Tech where the Rams scored twice in the final two minutes, including the game winner with 42 seconds remaining to top their previously undefeated opponents.

"This was our first test of the season and that's why I thought it was so great," Baker said. "Me and the Blackstone coach were talking after the game and we were both pleased to play such a great game against some very good competition."

Freshman defenseman Dylan Leoni scored the game winner carrying the ball over midfield and making a nice pass to senior captain Mike Arricale, who returned a perfect pass to Leoni who continued to rush the net.

Leoni grabbed Arricale's pass and rifled a shot past the stunned Blackstone goalie.

"We have gotten really good at the give and go's and Dylan made a nice catch and a great shot," Baker said.

Sophomore attack Cory Foss had scored with about two minutes left to tie the game after the Rams had squandered a 5-3 half-time lead, one his two goals on the game.

Senior captain Nick Illsley of Tewksbury had a goal in the game, while junior Shawn Donovan of Tewksbury added a goal and an assist to his team leading totals. Sophomore Ryan Hunt of Wilmington had gotten the Rams off to a good start with a goal just a minute into the game and Wilmington residents Jason Baker and Andrew Companschi each added a goal and two assists on the game.

Junior goalie Ryan Smith of Tewksbury made 13 saves in the victory.

The Rams' previous game, last Friday against South Shore, had gone much more according to form as they rolled to a 14-2 win behind four goals and four assists from Donovan. Donovan topped the 100 point mark last season and he is well on his way to doing the same this year with 14 goals and 18 assists for 32 points through the team's first six games.

"Shawn sees the field real well. He is a great playmaker, but he is off to a better start this year in terms of goal scoring," Baker said. "All three of those guys, (Donovan, Foss, Arricale) are off to a great start and are at a pace to get 80, 90 or 100 points."

The Rams have several players having outstanding offensive seasons starting with Donovan's 32 points. He is followed by Arricale (15-15-30), Foss (18-11-29), Jason Baker (6-5-11), Kyle Gaffey of Wilmington (5-4-9) and Wilmington's Jesse Rossetti (4-4-8).

Ryan Smith has allowed 14 goals in 234 minutes for a 2.87 Goals Against Average and a .763 save percentage.

Softball

The Shawsheen softball team is off to a great start of their own this season, having outscored their opponents by a combined score of 20-1 in their three games this season. The Lady Rams' most recent win may have been their most impressive, of the season even though it was their closest game of the year. After having routed Greater Lowell 11-1 and Mystic Valley 6-0, the Lady Rams battled non-league rival Ursuline Academy last Friday at Shawsheen and came away with a 3-0 shutout victory over their talented opponents.

Against Ursuline the Lady Rams got on the board in the first inning after Kristina Lees singled and went to second on a fielder's choice before scoring on single by Katie Hogan of Tewksbury.

Katie Russo scored Shawsheen's second run after singling and stealing second and scoring on an error in the fourth inning. Junior Kelli Jo Deardorff who had a sensational game pitching, helped her own cause by singling in the fifth inning and scoring on a double by Hogan.

Shawsheen has been getting some key hits when they need them this season and are putting some runs on the board which was a problem at times last season.

"It's nice to see our hitting come early for us this year because we have struggled with hit at times," coach Maureen Buckley said. "If we score and get ahead early it takes a lot of pressure off the defense and allows them to play much looser."

Of course when Deardorff is pitching the way she did on Monday, the main problem for the defense could simply be getting bored. Deardorff allowed one hit in the complete game victory while striking out 13 batters. It was the second time this season that Deardorff has struck out 13 batters in a game, having also accomplished the feat against Greater Lowell.

"She is doing a good job and she is working very well," Buckley said. "She worked on her mechanics in the off season so hopefully she will have less wear and tear as the season goes on. Sarah Elwell is doing a great job pitching as well."

Elwell, of Tewksbury, picked up the save against Mystic Valley by throwing five scoreless innings against Mystic Valley and allowing only one hit.

Leadoff batter Colleen Carroll of Wilmington is off to a strong start this season, going 3-for-3 with a double against Mystic Valley and adding two more hits in the win over Greater Lowell.

"Colleen is doing just what a senior needs to do in the leadoff position by getting on base to set up the rest of our lineup and she has also gotten some key hits to move other kids around," Buckley said.

Jenna Zechner and Kristina Lees have played very well for Shawsheen in the early season. Zechner had a grand slam against Mystic Valley, while Lees had a pair of hits, including accounting for the other two runs with a two run homer of her own.

Co-ed Tennis

The Shawsheen co-ed tennis team is off to a 2-0 start on the season, having downed Greater Lawrence by a core of 7-0 in their season opener on April 8, and following that up with an impressive 6-1 win over Minuteman last Thursday afternoon.

The Rams got several outstanding performances on the day, including one from junior Kyle Stocki of Wilmington who earned a 10-0 victory as well as junior Michael Burgos, who rolled to a 10-1 victory of his own.

"Kyle is doing a real good job. He is keeping his composure in his new spot at number two and he will fill in very nicely at number one for us next year as well," Shawsheen coach J.P. Boriello said. "Burgos played number four singles for us last year and has moved up this year and has done a great job so far."

Freshman Mark Weber of Wilmington picked up the win at fourth singles for the Rams with an impressive 10-3 victory.

"Mark is looking really good," Boriello said. "He plays on the freshman basketball team and is a very good athlete. He is adjusting to tennis now and doing a good job."

The Rams' doubles teams also were very strong against Minuteman with the number one doubles combination of Alex Perez and Mike Rose storming to a 10-0 victory in just their second match together as a team.

"They played together a lot this summer, but this is their first time playing together at the high school level," Boriello said. "They are working really well together and they are having a lot of fun out there, which we like to see."

In second doubles, the combination of senior Sarah Weber and junior Jayce Humes, both of Wilmington, came away with a 10-1 victory.

"It's also just their second time playing on the same doubles team together," Boriello said. "They did really well and I think they will keep getting better."

The Rams took on CAC rival Greater Lowell on Tuesday, and while results of the match were not available at press time, Boriello knew that the matchup with the Gryphons would be the Rams' toughest of the season to this point.

"The whole team is really clicking right now. Everyone is playing well," Boriello said.

Co-ed Track

The Shawsheen boys track team improved to 4-0 this week with wins over Monty Tech (77-51), Hudson Catholic (111-26) and Northeast Regional (113-23).

The Rams received several outstanding performances from some local athletes with Andrew Maga of Wilmington winning the long jump with a distance of 16-10 and the javelin with a throw of 130-0. James Melloni of Tewksbury took first in the shot put with a throw of 41-4 while Derek Steen of Wilmington picked up a win in the 110 hurdles in a time of 17.72.

Josh Delisle of Tewksbury won the 300 low hurdles in a time of 44.6, while Chris Damp of Tewksbury won the 800 meters in a time of 2:20. Josh Weaver of Wilmington took the two mile in a time of 12:08.

The girls track team is also off to an outstanding start with a 3-1 record to this point. Despite suffering their first loss of the season to Monty Tech., the Lady Rams continued their very successful season with wins over Hudson Catholic and Monty Tech.

Lauren Impemba of Wilmington got a victory in the 110 hurdles in a time of 2:19, while Alyssa Mooney of Tewksbury took the 400 meters in a time of 1:17. Abby Pinard of Tewksbury picked up the win in the two mile with a time of 15:49.

Baseball

The Shawsheen Tech (3-0, 3-1) baseball team is off to good start this season, with their most recent victory coming in very impressive fashion over CAC rival Greater Lawrence on Monday afternoon when the Rams walloped the Reggies by a score of 12-1.

The Rams had many offensive stars on the day, but the biggest star may have been senior Steve McIsaac of Wilmington who blasted a two run homer and drove in four runs as part of his 2-for-3 day.

"Steve was struggling a little in the early going this season, but hopefully this will get him going a little," Shawsheen coach Kevin

Bloom said. "He had a great day."

Also playing very well for Shawsheen was senior Tommy Joyce of Tewksbury who went 2-for-4 with a double, an RBI and a run scored. Derek Sorenson also had a pair of hits on the day and drove in three runs, including a pair on a single in the fourth inning that broke open a close game and made the score 5-1.

Jon McDonald picked up the win on the mound for the Rams with a complete game one hitter, allowing only the one unearned run while striking out eight batters.

In their previous game, the Rams had suffered a 7-2 loss to non-league rival Wilmington, so Bloom was pleased to see his team bounce back in such impressive fashion.

"It was nice to see the bats bounce back because we had struggled a little," Bloom said. "It was nice to see us come out and swing with some authority."

While the Greater Lawrence game was great from start to finish for the Rams, the Wilmington game was a very difficult loss to swallow. After battling the Wildcats pitch for pitch for six innings, and trailing just 2-1 entering the top of the seventh on their home field, the Rams surrendered five runs in the inning and wound up falling by a 7-2 score.

"It was a great game for six innings," Bloom said. "Then they got their leadoff guy on in the seventh and we ended up making a few mistakes during the inning. We had a chance at one point to turn a double play, and get out of the inning without any damage, but we couldn't do it and just like that they scored five unearned runs."

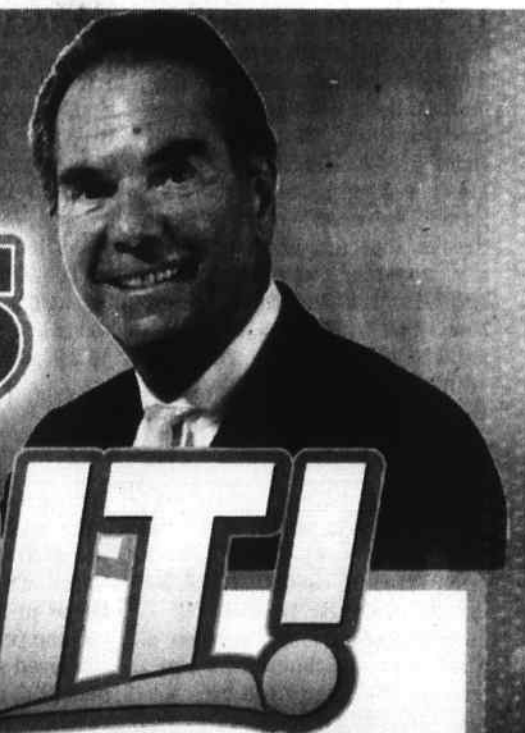

Anthony Miano of Tewksbury pitched well for the Rams, allowing only one earned run in 6 2/3 innings of work, while striking out five batters.

"Anthony pitched well," Bloom said. "It was just a case where we did not play good defense behind him. The whole team played pretty well for six innings. We battled their tooth and nail, and the final score was not really indicative of how competitive a game it was."

Many locals to compete in Boston

• By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Thirty-four locals from Wilmington and Tewksbury will be competing in this Monday's 112th Boston Marathon. While there are many familiar faces, there are also a handful of new faces who will put on their running shoes and take the 26-mile journey throughout the city of Boston, ending in Kenmore Square.

Of the 33 participants, 19 reign from Wilmington, including seven who participated last year: Lisa Hodge (4:08.40), Paolo Cataldi (4:16.28), Chris Cassidy (4:33.46), Steven Gray (4:38.16), Eva Israelson (4:56.59), Steve Zuccaro (4:59.16) and Bill Covino (5:04.04). Covino is the oldest participant from Wilmington running at the young age of 56.

Both Simonetta Piergentilli and David DeRose have previous experience in the Boston Marathon and they will return on Monday. Also registering include:

Michael Carli (25 years old), Susan Enck (37), Paul Logan (39), Anthony Ong (35), Danile Romanzo (39), Cheryl Slater (36), Timothy Smith (27), Kelly Sullivan (36) and Dan Vassallo (22), who is coming off his tremendous collegiate career at Colby College in Maine.

The other 15 locals come from Tewksbury including '07 returners David Dechellis (2:49.59), Beth Cunningham (3:27.25), Gerald McCarthy (3:47.00), Michael Doherty (3:55.50), Gregory Stratis (4:01.44), Judy Gallagher (4:34.25), Kellie Mitchell (4:37.36), Marko Duffy (4:38.24) and Brian Milner (4:49.25). Michael Linskey is also back after numerous appearances, and newcomers in clued Jennifer Carbonneau (32 years old), Kevin Christie (50), Mary Hebert (36), Amy Nesbitt (30) and Steve Smith (36).

Last year Robert Cheruiyot of Kenya won the men's competition coming across at 2:14.13, while in the women's field, Lidiya Grigoryeva of Russia was victorious coming across the line at 2:29.18. Robert K

According to the Boston Marathon website (Bostonmarathon.org), approximately 500,000 spectators are expected to be on hand to give their support to the over 20,000 expected runners representing at least 88 countries.

In addition, two years ago 1,200 participants representing 18 different charitable organizations, raised more than 7.5 million dollars.

*All of the competitors listed above came from the Bostonmarathon.org website. If there are any locals from Wilmington or Tewksbury who are not listed, please give a call or send an email to Jamie Pote at 978-658-2346 or Jamie@yourtowncrier.com.

U15 Boys Lacrosse team takes on Hornets

The Wilmington U15 White Boys lacrosse team hosted North Reading this past weekend. Wilmington lost an exciting match during overtime 5 to 4 in a physically played and fast paced game to open up the 2008 season.

Wilmington had been ahead throughout most of the game led by its awesome defense when North Reading scored the tying goal as time ended during regulation.

North Reading then scored the go ahead and winning goal on a quick fast break in overtime. Stanley Dancewicz provided very strong Goaltending and quieted the North Reading offense throughout the game with excellent saves and crisp defensive clears.

The defense was excellent as well and played a very strong game against the sizeable and very physical North Reading team. The defense was headed by Alex Furlong, Tim Masiello, Jack Campbell, Eric Jaeschke, Alex Danas, and Robbie Sutura which virtually eliminated and/or disrupted the shots taken on net.

Furlong and Danas played very strong in eliminating most fast break opportunities while Jaeschke's defensive clears moved the ball very well into the transition game.

The offense had a strong game with a very balanced passing attack which spread out the North Reading defense. The offensive fire power was provided by Chris Crupi with two unassisted goals. Ryan Kennedy and Arthur Papastathis each had one goal. Justin MacKinnon and Brian Priem each had one goal assist.

There was very strong middle offense provided by Brooks Carter, Conor Ryan, Priem, Jamie Mara, Andrew Morris, Dylan Turner, MacKinnon, Eric Masiello and Kelly Carter. Moving the ball on offensive attack were the attacks led by Kennedy, Papastathis, Brian Pickett, Crupi, Trevor Foley and John Cimeno.

Masconomet, 8-1, before falling to North Andover, 13-12. "I think we can play with most every team," said Surran. "We played with North Andover and for the most part (Tuesday) we played with Tewksbury but Marissa is the equalizer."

In the win over Burlington, Erin Crowley was the offensive star going 2-for-3 with a triple, while, Katie Cole and Nicole Bockus had two hits each.

Chelsie Babcock was the winning pitcher as she gave up seven hits.

In the win over Masconomet, Babcock was the winning pitcher giving up an unearned run, and just one hit while walking two and striking out three. She also scored two runs and knocked in a pair with the bat. Nicole Bockus was 3-for-4, Cole was 2-for-4 and Michelle White knocked in two runs to lead the way offensively.

The loss to North Andover was very odd, as the Wildcats trailed 8-1 after three innings, and then 13-7 through six before rallying to score six runs in the bottom of the seventh to fall short. Kim Ciampa was very impressive going 5-for-5, while Cole, McLaughlin and Babcock had three hits each and Briana Parow collected two.

thing I'll never forget."

Although Carli said he's not looking forward to the morning when he will be full of anticipation and anxiety, he said he is looking forward to having a good time, and he hopes to have this 'good time' once he crosses the finish line.

"I'm aiming to finish my first

Boston Marathon in something equal or better than 3:59:59," said Carli. "My goal is to not let my watch read four hours."

To date, Carli has raised $4,068.00 for the Boston Medical Center. The company's mission is to provide consistently excellent and accessible health services to all in need of care regardless of status and ability to pay. To donate to Mike Carli and the Boston Medical Center, visit Carli's blog at www.mikecarli.blogspot.com.

Combining creativity and technical savvy, this area is quickly growing a video production industry

Take, one!

By DOUG
WOOD-BOYLE

As more and more Hollywood production companies look toward Massachusetts for film and video location sights, two local companies are looking to take advantage of the influx and grow as independent video production firms.

Ironically both companies have a common denominator. They both grew out of local access television and although the participants are friendly they are taking somewhat different paths in their growth.

The older of the two
is Syzygy Media Works,
Inc. which came about
through a Film Style

Workshop held by WCAT, Wakefield's Community Access Television. Syzygy President David Watts, Jr., of Wakefield, teamed up with one of his students, Samuel Ranger of Revere and a friend Wakefield resident Ian McDermott to form the company.

KDS Productions was formed when Marsha Brown, of Melrose, met her business partner Adam Dusenberry during a class Dusenberry, a Wakefield native, was teaching at WinCam, Winchester's local access television facility.

Another common factor of the two companies is they will be working together to help produce a documentary on the 30 year history of Middlesex East. Syzygy is doing the video portion and KDS will be doing the editing on Final Cut Pro.

Watts said of Syzygy, "We are still a concept to finished DVD (Digital Video Disc) company. However, we've walked away from the corporate side and are focusing more on entertainment and documentaries."

At present the company is developing a pilot for an original television series "American Rhapsody" which was conceived and is co-produced by WCAT Program Director Shawn Downs. The program has already won a regional and national award for excellence from the Alliance for Community Media (ACM).

Syzygy is also developing a documentary based on the

for the filming of the American Rhapsody pilot. At far left in red is Marsha Brown with Shawn Downs holding the microphone in the background. Below is Adam Dusenberry, a Wakefield native, shooting a scene while Samah Elbannan holds the microphone. That's Daniel Parsienault being filmed sitting on the sidewalk for the film "About It All".

Independent video production companies such as Syzygy Media Works and KDS Productions are appearing locally as filmmakers look to Massachusetts for major film productions.

Another project is the development of an interview program called "The Writing Life." According to Watts, it will be interviews with people involved with all aspects of writing.
A second pod-cast series in development is on Access Media Today. It video and TV program categories were soon added. Today, the Telly is one of the most sought-after awards by industry leaders, from large international firms to local production companies and ad agencies.

Dusenberry said of KDS,
"Our specialty is personal stories on video."

The company's website,

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"STREET KINGS"

"STREET KINGS" STARS KENEAU REEVES as an undercover cop. It is a lean, energetic film that carries viewers through increasingly brutal scenes. If you like hardcore police movies, then you will like "Street Kings."

"STREET KINGS"
GRADE: ***

When we first see Keanu Reeves onscreen in "Street Kings," he's carrying a gun, and no one is sure if he's a cop or a crook.

Quickly, we learn he's working undercover, setting up some hardcore criminals, but we also learn he walks a thin line as a cop who has no problem with evidence tampering or killing unarmed baddies. Reeves and his team (played by Forest Whitaker and John Corbett, as well as others) works in a moral twilight zone that has drawn the attention of Internal Affairs agent Hugh Laurie.

Sound familiar? It's the type of story that has been covered before in films like "Training Day" and "Dark Blue." All these fictional movies argue that it is difficult to stay on the right side of the law if you are constantly exposed to lawless behavior.

"Street Kings" is a lean, energetic film that carries viewers through increasingly brutal scenes until the climax explodes like a fireworks display with a burst of violence so expansive and intense you're not sure which part of the screen to watch to take it all in. Reeves and his fellow cops don't know the difference between wrong and right anymore.

Because the script takes some sharp turns, watching the movie gives you the sensation of being yanked in several directions at once. The effect is that you are never quite sure who is good and evil, and by the end you likely still won't know if Reeves is a cop or a crook.

If you're a fan of hardcore police shows like "Homicide," "The Shield" and "The Wire," then you'll like "Street Kings."

"LEATHERHEADS"
GRADE: ***

"Leatherheads" plays out like a screwball/period sports comedy that is surprisingly refreshing and effective at times, and it is old-fashioned in several respects.

George Clooney directed the movie, which is set in the mid-1920s, and stars as Jimmy "Dodge" Connelly, a middle-age professional player and coach for the struggling Duluth, Minn., Bulldogs football team.

The Bulldogs franchise is in danger of folding, as is the entire league they're in. That is, until Dodge manages to entice college football star Carter "The Bullet" Rutherford (John Krasinski) to join the team.

But along with bigger crowds, Carter brings another, seemingly unwanted element with him: Lexie Littleton (Renee Zellweger), a Chicago reporter who's been assigned to write an incriminating story about Carter's alleged World War I heroism.

With Carter on board, the Bulldogs begin winning. But there's also conflict, with both Dodge and Carter competing for Lexie's affections, as well as control of the team.

The script is co-written by Sports Illustrated columnist Rick Reilly.

The movie works well until it runs out of steam about two-thirds of the way through, but it helps that there's a very likable cast. Clooney's character fits him like a twin, and he's well-matched with Zellweger, who can talk comedic dialogue with the best in the business.

Krasinski (TV's "The Office") is good as the third part of the love triangle, while Jonathan Pryce is appropriately slimy as Carter's scheming agent.

GRADE: **

A favorite song of mine claims that you have to know when to hold 'em, and know when to fold 'em. Unfortunately, the new blackjack movie "21" does neither.

Based on a true story, the plot centers around Ben Campbell, an MIT undergrad who happens to be a mathematical genius. In order to pay for his upcoming Harvard Medical School tuition, he joins a team of blackjack players, led by professor Kevin Spacey, to try to use their math skills to take Vegas for millions of dollars. Unfortunately for them, a security agent (Laurence Fishburne) is on to their game and will try to stop them at all costs.

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?
ANSWERS: HAT, NOSE, SHOE, ARM, PURSE, NOSE, GLASSES.

The first half of this film is very fun to watch. The pacing is terrific and seeing the set up and the possibility of winning this big is thrilling. Jim Sturgess (who plays Campbell) great performance gives a great performance.

That was an example of when the director should have known how to hold 'em, to stick with what was working.

The second half of the movie somewhat flops. Once the thrill of winning is over, the characters all start to make stupid decisions for the sake of drama and the unrealistic turn the film makes gets you rolling your eyes on many occasions. While I haven't read the true-story book that this movie was based on, Bringing Down the House, I have heard and read accounts that the real-life events were nothing like what was put on film. This is an example of when the director should have simply folded 'em, and walked away from this part of the storyline.

Just like real gambling, when the movie is on a hot streak it's a blast, when it starts to skid it's uncomfortable to watch.

"DRILLBIT TAYLOR"
GRADE: **

There's a line in "Drillbit Taylor" where two of the main characters argue the merits of

"not being able to polish a turd." That line is very appropriate when considering this flick, which is a real stinker.

There's no can of air freshener big enough to make this sucker smell any prettier, as it joins a parade of bad movies this spring.

Owen Wilson stars in the title role as a homeless bum recruited to use his special forces training to protect three kids getting bullied at school.

Drillbit sees the kids as a cash cow, one that can pay for his first-class ticket to Canada where he plans to start his life over.

Wilson looks almost as bored making the movie as the audience that has to suffer through it.

Wilson's trademark slacker appeal doesn't help a movie that needs an actor capable of providing that adrenaline shot of charisma and excitement to make the material truly effective with his manic performance (i.e. a Jack Black or Will Ferrell.)

The one thing they manage to get right is making the bullies such obnoxious jerks that you really want to see them suffer a little humiliation. Unfortunately, we don't even really get rewarded with a great payoff for enduring the agonizingly boring setup. Every so often there's a funny joke or cute moment, but they appear almost accidental.

ROAD WARRIORS PAST AND PRESENT

His story (and hers) in Wilmington

"A conversation with WWII veteran, Battle of the Bulge participant, and Silver Star recipient George Veloza, is like spending time with a living, breathing history book," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Veloza and his wife, Anna, have maintained a home in Wilmington since 1956. Together on a rainy Monday morning, they sat at their dining room table and took turns telling stories of his experiences serving during WWII, her time 'back home' without him, and their time together in Wilmington, each in turn filling in the blanks when the other would hesitate in recollection.

"Three shadow boxes full of medals and photos are physical depictions of the dangerous assignments undertaken by Veloza during WWII. Among the highlights are his Silver Star and Purple Heart, each a testimony to the great physical risks he experienced while serving his country.

"One of Veloza's grandchildren has been working diligently to preserve the family history and Veloza's medals and honors and memories from his time in the war. He is also actively trying to prove that his grandfather was supposed to have received a Presidential Commendation. Unfortunately, a fire in a military office located out west destroyed many military records.

"The military did honor Veloza with the Silver Star, the nation's third highest honor, in 1945, for his courageous work with the 10th Armored Division in rescuing [5 to 7] wounded soldiers who were attempting to cross the fragmented remains of a small bridge on the Moselle River in Germany while under enemy fire.

"He received his Purple Heart in Germany - also on the banks of the Moselle River - as the result of a concussion and minor shrapnel wounds that he suffered as the result of being thrown from the turret of his tank after it received a direct hit..."

Happy landings in Burlington

"With little discussion, as primarily just one matter needed to be finalized, the Planning Board voted 6-0 - member Jayne Hyde was absent - to approve a helipad location for Lahey Clinic," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The vote puts an apparent end to an issue which town boards and Lahey officials mulled over for nearly three years, seeking a solution.

"The matter first became public in March 2005, when Fire Chief Lee Callahan was before the Board of Selectmen, telling members landings at TRW Field were becoming more frequent, and that the noise was bothering neighbors.

"In the following years, several possible locations were considered.

"The landing site approved by the Planning Board is off the ring road of the Lahey campus, near the Kimball Avenue parking lot. The location is close to 67 South Bedford St.

"When the public hearing opened last fall, owners of that property, Lincoln Properties, Inc., stated their objection to the plan, saying they believed landing of helicopters would disrupt employees there.

"Several subcommittee meetings followed between the Planning Department and Lahey officials, and, at the meeting, board member Albert Fay said, 'I believe the only matter we had remaining was the two tenants getting together....'

"Attorney Robert Buckley of the local firm of Riemer & Braunstein, representing Lahey Clinic, responded....

"Planning Board member John DeFrancesco asked if the board had received a copy of the agreement.

"I will send a letter to the board indicating that there is an agreement,' Buckley responded.

"The attorney then went on to say that the actual terms of the agreement could not be disclosed in the letter, because several aspects of the agreement are private 'between the two parties.'"

Check the internet re: Reading

"The reconstruction of Reading Square and the downtown area recently began, and town officials held two meetings to inform business owners and residents about how the project would impact them," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Main Street Reconstruction Project began this Spring (no specific date had been given, though the target time was mid-to-late March, weather permitting).

"The Town conducted two informational sessions explaining what businesses and residents could expect during the downtown reconstruction project. Both meetings were held at the Senior Center in the Great Room. The first meeting was on Thursday, February 28th and was for downtown business owners and addressed the specific concerns they might have about the project and how it will affect their businesses throughout the process. The second meeting was on Monday, March 3 and was for residents who might have had questions or concerns about the project.

"Speaking at the informational sessions were Peter Hechenbleikner, Town Manager; George Zambouras, Town Engineer; a representative from the Police Department and a representative from J. Marchesi & Sons, contractor on the reconstruction project. Plans of the project are available for inspection.

"The Town is compiling an email distribution list of business owners and residents so that the Town can issue updates directly via email throughout the duration of the project.

"A Main Street webpage is available on the Town website at www.ci.reading.ma.us. It indicates the plans and progress of the reconstruction...."

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What was the first Major League Baseball team to receive rings for winning the World Series?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

JUNIOR MICHAELA HARDY (READING) erupted for a career-high seven goals to lead the 14th-ranked University of New Hampshire women's lacrosse team to Saturday afternoon's 17-10 America East victory over Stony Brook University at Kenneth P. LaValle Stadium.

The Wildcats, who have not lost in over a month, record their ninth-straight win to improve to 10-2, including 3-0 in America East. The Seawolves, losers of two straight, fall to 5-5 overall and 0-3 in the conference.

Hardy's seven-point performance erased her previous career highs of six goals and six points March 12 versus Harvard. Hardy found the back of the net two times - including the first off a free position - to give UNH a 4-3 lead at 16:24. Kaitlin Leggio scored her second of the game to tie it at 14:20, before the Wildcats reeled off six straight - three consecutive from Hardy to start the run - to close the half with a 10-4 advantage.

Hardy picked up her sixth goal to start the second half at 26:38. At 17:33, Von Borgen kicked off a streak of four straight goals for UNH that would cap its scoring and open up a 17-6 lead with 10:39.

Three of the greatest athletes in UMass Lowell's history, including TEWKSBURY RESIDENT JILL CROFT PAIGE '02 will be inducted into the University's Athletic Hall of Fame Tuesday, May 13 at the 2008 Excellence Banquet at the Costello Athletic Center.

Paige, a track and field standout from 1998-02, was arguably the best athlete in New England, regardless of division. Honors came in bunches for Jill (Croft) Paige, who starred with the UMass Lowell women's track and field team from 1998-2002, and that is still the case.

Paige graduated from UMass Lowell as the most decorated female athlete of her time, earning All-American honors seven times in the indoor and outdoor long jump, indoor high jump and indoor 60 meter dash.

She twice placed second at the NCAA Championship in the outdoor long jump: in 2000, with a leap of 19' 9" and in 2001 with a distance of 19' 5.25".

Perhaps equally as impressive, Paige also captured All-New England honors - which encompasses all three NCAA divisions - 13 times, which included three New England championships in the outdoor long jump, 100 and 200 meter dashes.

When UML entered the NE-10 with the year 2000-01, she went on to capture individual championships in seven indoor and outdoor events over two years. She was named the NE-10 Female Athlete of the Year for the indoor and outdoor seasons in 2002.

Paige went on to establish seven school records in the indoor and outdoor long jump, indoor and outdoor 4X200 relay and outdoor high jump, 4X100 relay and 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Though nearly six years graduated, six of her school records remain in tact: indoor long jump (19' 8.8"), 4X200 relay (1:41.51), outdoor 100 meter dash (11.83), 200 meter dash (24.15), outdoor long jump (19' 11.0") and high jump (5' 10").

More impressive, she still holds the New England record - again, all NCAA divisions - in the outdoor 100 meter dash (11.84), set in 2001.

Among her many titles, Paige was named UML's Lester H. Cushing Award recipient three times, from her sophomore year forward.

Evidenced by her performances in the New England Championships and NAAs, Paige made a routine of peaking in the biggest meets and gave arguably one of the best single-day efforts in UML history.

At the 2001 New England Outdoor Championships, she captured both the 100 and 200 meter dashes and led the 4X100 to third place to compile 26 points and lead the River Hawks to second place behind the University of Connecticut, their best-ever showing.

Paige currently lives in TEWKSBURY, and is the mother of two daughters. Her husband, Mike '02, was a five-time All-American and former standout soccer player at UML.

Need some help with this week's question? The year was 1922.

UMASS-LOWELL SOPHOMORE JACQUI BARRETT (WOBBURN) was named the field athlete of the week as the Northeast-10 Conference announced its weekly award winners Monday. Barrett was among a combined eight winners for the UMass Lowell men and women's track and field teams at the Stonehill College Skyhawk Invitational Saturday.

Barrett captured the shot put with a throw of 44 feet, 10 inches - achieving her personal best for the third straight week - and ascended to sixth on the NCAA Championship qualifier list.

FORMER NASHUA PRIDE PITCHER AND NORTH READING NATIVE STEVE PALAZZOLO has been assigned to the Connecticut Defenders, double-A affiliate of Major League Baseball's San Francisco Giants.

Through three games this season, he has a 0.00 ERA in five innings pitched over three games, allowing one hit and five strikeouts.

The contract of Palazzolo was sold to the Giants in September of 2007, just days after the Nashua Pride won its first Can-Am League Championship.

Palazzolo was arguably the Pride's top setup man out of the bullpen in the 2007 season. He led the team with a 2.14 ERA and held opposing hitters to a .208 batting average. The North Reading native was tied for third in the league with 43 appearances. In 54.2 innings pitched, the 6'1" right-hander allowed only 41 hits while striking out 63 batters.

Palazzolo will now enjoy his second stint in Major League affiliated baseball, as he played previously in the Milwaukee Brewers system.

Since the Nashua Pride joined the Can-Am League in 2006, the organization has sent six players to Major League organizations.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The 1922 New York Giants, who defeated the Yankees, were the first champions to receive rings. The oldest ring in the Hall of Fame collection is from the 1932 Yankees.

DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200.

Your home is your best investment

Making a smart house buying decision in today's market can be challenging especially without good information. It is important to remember that all real estate is local, and conditions vary greatly from one community to another.

Historically, homeownership builds wealth over the long term. Median home prices have been rising for years and, on average, homes have appreciated at about 6 percent annually for more than a generation.

"Housing is a good long-term investment," said National Association of Realtors (NAR) chief economist Lawrence Yun. "Many markets today offer great opportunities for homeownership and real estate investment."

With reports of tighter credit markets, buyers may worry that they cannot qualify for a loan. "For buyers able to qualify for conventional financing, there are ample opportunities in the current market, and FHA-insured mortgages are on the rise," Yun said, adding that buyers have many things going for them in the current market.

Abundant choices.

Increased housing inventory means buyers can negotiate better prices and terms.

Available credit. Congress is working to reform Federal Housing Administration programs and increase loan limits in some areas to give buyers more options. The Veterans Home Loan Guaranty program, administered by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, also offers excellent options to veterans.

Low interest rates. Mortgage interest rates have been declining, making borrowing more affordable for potential homeowners.

Wealth-building potential. Studies show that homeowners have an average net worth of $184,000, compared to just $4,000 for renters. Owning a home returns psychological, social and community benefits, as well.

The experts on homeownership at the National Association of Realtors say many cities offer affordable home prices, making now a good time for people to become homeowners.

A Realtor can explain market conditions and help you take advantage of real estate opportunities.

This past fall, KDS covered the Head of the Charles Regatta and recently they spent the weekend at the Park Plaza covering a national dance competition.

For the living portraits and memorial tributes, Brown will sit with the client and conduct and interview using her writing and interviewing skills that have been honed over the years. Dusenberry is the technical person who does all the video work and final cut editing.

At present, KDS is awaiting word on their submission to the 48 Hour Film Festival. The Boston chapter of the Festival was started on Friday April 4 when the categories were announced to the contestants. KDS, as well as all other contestants had 48 hours to write, produce and edit a four to seven minute video in their awarded category and submit by Sunday April 6.

According to Dusenberry, during a recent viewing of all the submissions, the KDS entry "Above All Else" the story of a romance that took place during the attack on the World Trade Center not a sound could be heard during the film and it received an ovation at the end.

Above All Else can be viewed at www.myspace.com/wtns and click on videos.

At Syzygy, a lot of the creative work comes from Watts. McDermott is the technical person in the crew and Ranger covers the business end of the company.

Recently Syzygy has aligned itself with Pragmatic Public Relations and Event Planning. This merger is allowing the two companies to provide their clients with full service to both media and technical skills.

Syzygy's website (www.szygygymediaworks.com) states, "Syzygy Media Works is a Boston-based production company that focuses primarily on entertainment and information projects for television, the Internet, and distribution on a variety of media."

"Being based where we are allows us to take advantage of a wide variety of easily accessible locations and the established freelance talent pool that has become a hallmark of the region."

"With our foot firmly in the entertainment side of the industry, we can bring a greater breadth of experience and talent to our corporate clients from concept through production and post-production to the finished product."

"PragmaticPR, a Syzygy Media Works subsidiary company, expands our services to public relations, marketing, and event planning. Corporate, non-profit organizations, and trade shows are among the types of clients ably handled by PragmaticPR."

The Middlesex East documentary will trace the history of this publication and show the changes that have occurred in newspaper publishing. Interviews will be conducted with some of the veteran publishers of community newspapers such as the Haggerty and Silvia families and some of the editors and reporters of the 10 newspapers in the Middlesex East network.

The video will be seen on local access television stations in all 10 communities.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

EVERYTHING'S COMING UP...SPRINGTIME

Mostly rosy in Woburn

"School Committee member Denis Russell painted mostly a rosy picture in his latest occasional state-of-the-schools update to the City Council's most recent meeting," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Topics ranged from MCAS results to the accreditation process at Woburn Memorial High to the opening of the new Connolly Stadium, which hosted the 2007 Thanksgiving Day football game with Winchester."

"The (School Committee's Resource) subcommittee is pleased with the successful opening of Connolly Stadium and the excellent maintenance of WMHS, as well as all our schools," said Russell.

"Whether the building is new or old, all of our students are attending classes in a clean, safe environment."

"Results of the accreditation team's visit this past fall are expected to be released in the spring."

"Thanks to the WMHS staff, many of whom worked long hours without extra pay in preparation for the accreditation team visit, everything went well and we look forward to the team's final report and the recommendations aimed at improving the quality of education for our students there," said Russell.

"Russell said the School Committee may explore the possibility of hiring a private landscaping company to care for a portion of the grounds at Woburn Memorial High...."

Quick thinking in Wakefield

"The Wakefield Police Department, in conjunction with the Middlesex Sheriff's Office and the Cal Ripken, Sr., Foundation, is hosting a Quickball program for local youths in grades three through eight and signups are now underway," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Quickball is a fast-paced indoor form of baseball designed to keep kids interested and active while emphasizing teamwork and sportsmanship," police explained.

"The sport, for both boys and girls, is slightly different from baseball. It's adapted to be played indoors, so a hard rubber ball and waffle bat replace their more potentially-damaging counterparts. An underhand fast toss replaces the traditional baseball pitch."

"Quickball is also more fast-paced than baseball, as each batter gets one pitch and the goal is to get as many players up to the plate and in scoring position as possible within a period of 90 seconds."

"There's also versions of the game where batters can aim for targets placed at various locations and distances, and in some cases, opposing team members can work to defend those targets to prevent scoring."

"The emphasis is really on teamwork. There's no time for showmanship and if you decide to hot dog or give a teammate a hard time, you waste time and it really hurts the team," explained Officer Richard Cass, who has helped to organize this local Quickball program.

"Officer Cass added, 'Quickball is becoming tremendously popular. The program was started in Atlanta three years ago, and from just that one program, there's already 64 teams in the Atlanta area that play year-round. Wakefield is one of 25 locations around Massachusetts that's offering this program....'"

Unless it's changed already for Lynnfield

"Superintendent Dr. Richard Palermo presented the School Committee with a single option for the Lynnfield Public Schools 2008-2009 calendar," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"This year 185 days have been scheduled...."

"In past years the superintendent had presented multiple options, generally based upon start dates taking place before or after the Labor Day holiday."

"However, Palermo felt that starting the schools after the holiday would be impractical and this year gave the Committee only one option to review."

"Although students won't return until August 27, teachers will be in schools on August 25 and 26 for a double session of professional development."

"Having discussed the two-day session with his administrative team, Palermo felt strongly that this preparation was key to starting the year off on the good foot. The development days were run last year and were well received."

Ways to save money in the kitchen

If you'd like to put a few household expenses on the chopping block, consider making a few easy adjustments in your kitchen. These tips from the Cookware Manufacturers Association can be found in the new "Guide to Cookware and Bakeware," a handy kitchen tool itself.

Less Energy Use = Savings

Energy consumed by cooking is a very small percentage of the total energy demand, although cooking foods more efficiently will take a bite out of your energy bill.

• Select quality cookware that heats evenly and rapidly. Aluminum, copper and stainless steel with conductive bottoms are a few of the most efficient materials for quick heating.

• Use properly fitted covers for pots and pans. A well-fitted cover lets you turn the heat off a few minutes before food is completely cooked, because it retains heat in the pot or pan and finishes the cooking for you.

• Consider using portable electric appliances, such as slow cookers, broilers and toasters that require less energy than an electric range unit.

• Decrease cook times by thawing frozen foods before heating, unless the food package or recipe instructions specify otherwise.

• Remember that glass cookware is excellent for use as ovenware and for casseroles. Glass holds heat for a long time after being removed from the oven.

Dining In = Savings

Eating at home can make good economic sense because it is generally cheaper than eating out or buying expensive prepackaged meals. The following tips could make dining in even easier on the pocketbook.

• Think portion control. Dole out smaller serving sizes to your family and have them ask for more if they'd like. You'll probably have less to scrape into the garbage and more to bundle for another meal.

• Save money and your health by replacing cuts of meat with beans and other forms of protein. It's ultimately better for you and cuts cost at the checkout counter.

• Buy the best quality cookware your budget allows. Most kitchen equipment issued frequently and should be durable enough to last many years. Plus, the better your cookware, the more likely you are to cook.

Get a deal on home improvements

A slow housing market could be an advantage for anyone looking to make renovations to their homes. That's because as fewer new homes are being built and properties are being foreclosed upon, many contractors and builders are available to work on your home.

Renovations are a good investment for the homeowner looking to fix-up rather than move out of their home to a larger place. Once the housing market rebounds, if you do choose to sell, these renovations could be the deciding factor in marketing your home.

In years past, contractors could mark up prices to coincide with the booming housing market. But today they may be more willing to negotiate, especially since they may not be consumed with larger projects due to the slow real estate market. Contractors will know there will be others competing for work, so competitive prices could be their ticket in the door.

Now is the time to shop around for those repair projects and renovations that may have been unaffordable months ago. You can probably even negotiate for the price you want. When considering hiring a contractor in any market, it's important to follow some guidelines for your safety and financial protection.

1. Choose a respectable contractor who will do quality work. Doing your homework will help you weed out inexperienced or poor contractors and help you select one who knows his stuff. Avoid selecting someone based upon a flyer put in your door or who rings your bell to tell you that your siding or roof needs to be replaced.

2. Ask for recommendations. Friends and family can provide recommendations for minor renovations that will not cost that much. But for major jobs, seek the advice of professional services, such as the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) or the Remodelers Council of the National Association of Home Builders.

3. Ask for references from anyone you're considering for a renovation project. Call at least three to five of the people listed and ask if they were satisfied with the job.

4. Protect yourself and those around you by making sure that the contractor or builder has adequate insurance. Insurance protects you, the contractor and any personnel he has working under him.

5. Be wary of contracts that call for a large payment up front. Reputable contractors will set up a fair payment schedule with you that will likely involve several installments until the completion of the work.

6. Sign a contract that spells out all of the agreements made toward the renovation work. Again, this is protection for both you and the contractor. It ensures he will be able to renegotiate if you want to change plans mid-project. It protects you by having penalties if the contractor fails to complete the job on time. Additionally, ensure subcontractors will waive their right to place a lien on your home if they aren't paid by the contractor.

Create dimensional effects on walls

Looking for a new way to add texture and dimension to your home décor? Consider a textured stencil. It is a quick and relatively easy way to add style and dimension to any painted surface. With a few simple tools, and some tips from decorative painting experts, you can instantly update the look of any room. Follow these steps from Modern Masters® for a professional looking project:

Start with a previously painted or primed surface that is clean, dry and free of dust. Before you begin, gather all of your stenciling materials in one place - stencils, painters' tape or repositionable spray adhesive, measuring tape, metal trowel, texturing medium - and make sure the surface you're about to stencil is dry and sound.

Select a stencil for your project. Stencils can be purchased at paint and craft stores everywhere and are available in nearly every shape and size imaginable. Modern Masters makes a line of Royal Stencil Exclusives that are available in 20 designs in four different designer styles to spur your imagination. Choose from Ornamental, Exotic Worlds, Far East or Botanicals styles.

Follow the reference guide located on the stencil and position it on the correct area on the wall. Use painters' tape or repositionable spray adhesive to position the stencil onto the desired area and press firmly down.

For a dimensional effect, use Modern Masters® Texture Effects Multi-Purpose Texturing Medium instead of ordinary latex paint. This water-base acrylic plaster-like medium can be tinted to any desired color at your local paint store, or with universal colorants. Highly durable and versatile, Texture Effects can be used as an all over wall texture or for stenciling, raised relief, heavy distressed textures and to correct wall imperfections. It is water-resistant, will not shrink or crack while drying like other texturing mediums, and is hard once cured. For the ultimate textured look, create an over all textured wall finish with Texture Effects and when dry, add a stenciled look using the texturing medium again.

Using a flat angle, trowel Texture Effects over and through the stencil using a light, even pressure like icing a cake to keep the material from being pushed under the stencil. Once you have the texture smooth and even, carefully lift the stencil pulling straight away from the wall and admire your work! Repeat the pattern and texture throughout the surface to achieve your desired effect.

Laminate flooring Offers best of both worlds

Today's laminate flooring proves the age-old theory that opposites attract, by marrying realistic beauty and superior durability in one product.

Years ago, when laminate was first introduced, it performed well, but didn't look enough like real wood or stone to win the hearts of consumers. Over the past couple of years, however, manufacturers like Mannington Mills have developed incredible new technology that makes laminate flooring nearly impossible to distinguish from real wood, slate, or stone. A new collection of laminate from Mannington, called Revolutions, was one of the first on the market with 3-D texture, natural grout lines and beveled plank edges.

Laminate can be used in any room of your home. Mannington's award-winning designers have created laminate floors to coordinate with items you already have, like furniture and cabinetry. It comes in a wide variety of colors and patterns, from light ash to deep mahogany, and everything in between. And there are other looks besides wood to choose from; slate, stone and cork patterns are becoming more and more popular as consumers demand more variety and choices.

Wood looks lend warmth and elegance to a room. And depending on your style, you can have a look that's rustic and hand-crafted, or sleek and smooth; stone in an array of colors, from beige to gray, blue, or terracotta; or slate in bronze or gray. And no matter what your choice, laminate has excellent durability and easy maintenance, so it won't require a lot of time and energy to keep clean.

So who says opposites don't attract? In the case of laminate, they get along just fine. For more information on Mannington laminate floors, call 1-800-482-9527 or go to www.mannington.com to find a retailer near you.

Your Home!

Selecting the best type of replacement window for your home

So you've decided to replace your rotted, leaky windows. That decision was relatively easy considering new windows provide returns through energy cost savings and even greater returns in an increased home value. You've made a wise decision.

With the range of replacement window options available, however, your decisions have just begun. Do you want to replace the whole window? What about the interior or exterior trim? Do you need to replace only the sash - the glass and its casing - rather than the entire frame? Are you doing the work yourself or will you hire a contractor to help? Do you want to buy the windows from the same place that will install them? And then there are the multitude of options and features on windows to consider.

"With the replacement window models available today," said Jeff Kibler, brand manager for Peachtree Doors & Windows, "homeowners can replace as little or as much as they'd like - from just the glass or sash to the entire window and exterior trim. The various options can take the project from a relatively easy do-it-yourself task to a full-scale, contractor-level project."

Accurate Measurements
Measuring for replacement windows is one of the most critical parts of the project. Very few homes have off-the-shelf-size windows but instead require windows sized to match existing window openings. A measurement off by only an inch could mean the replacement part may not fit the window frame. In the case of a full replacement window, an inaccurate measurement may result in the need to cut into interior sheetrock and exterior siding in order to accommodate the window. Always double check your measurements or have another person verify your measurements.

Sash Kits
Double hung windows are the easiest windows to update. With a sash replacement kit, homeowners can replace just the operable part of the window by inserting new sash into an existing window frame and jamb. In about an hour per window, you can have new double-hung windows that operate effortlessly, stay open without ugly props, and tilt in for easy cleaning. Many sash kits include features of today's new construction windows such as smooth operating balance systems, high performance glass, and decorative grilles. You can also choose the material from which you'd like your new sash: all vinyl, vinyl exterior/wood interior, primed wood and aluminum-clad wood. Easy-to-follow instructions make replacing a sash a manageable do-it-yourself project.

Pocket Windows

If you have casement (crank-out) windows or rotten jambs in your double-hung windows, pocket replacement windows can update the look and performance of your windows. These windows fit into the existing window frame, leaving interior and exterior trim intact. Do-it-yourselfers can find pocket windows in a variety of materials in tilt-in single and double hung, casement and awning, sliding, and picture window styles.

Peachtree's 700 Series extruded aluminum-clad replacement windows can improve a home's energy performance and interior and exterior design with its many options. Because it was designed for replacement situations, you'll find fewer installation hassles and less disturbance to your home's siding, walls or existing interior and exterior trim than if you used a full replacement window.

Kibler said, "The 700 Series replacement windows have built-in features and options to save remodelers and window installers time - things like three sill angles and exterior accessories to remedy gaps between the new window and the existing frame. Each window is also shipped with the shims, color-coordinated adhesive and screws needed for installation. No more last-minute trips to the store to keep you from finishing the project."

Full Replacement

There are advantages to replacing an entire window. Perhaps you prefer casement windows and your home has all double-hung units. Maybe the frames on your windows have serious rot. Or, you want to replace your wood windows with a lower maintenance alternative like vinyl or aluminum clad wood. These situations call for a more complete replacement choice, which means most homeowners will need a professional contractor or window installation firm to help complete the project.

New construction windows can be adapted for retrofit applications by simply ordering the windows without the nailing fin that aids in quick and secure installations where siding is not yet present. Most windows for full tear-out situations, including Peachtree's 700 Series for new construction, are sized in 1/8" increments to accommodate whatever your opening.

The replacement window option you choose will depend on the extent to which your current windows are damaged or rotted. Sash replacement kits or pocket windows are sufficient in some cases; others require a more complete replacement window. The decisions are many, the returns considerable.

The Myersdale

A contemporary home with a nostalgic Georgian flavor.

The Myersdale is a contemporary home with a nostalgic Georgian flavor. Classic columns with an arched brick opening highlight and support an impressive entry, where two wide side-lights flank a door crowned by a half-round sunburst transom.

A partially vaulted hexagonal great room is at the core of this home. Wings extend to the right and left, then forward, creating a recessed entry courtyard effect. Doors on the three-car garage face the golf cart garage instead of the street.

Passing through the vaulted porch, you step into a partially vaulted entry. The front half of the hexagon comprises the kitchen, utility room, and a storage closet tucked under the stairs to the loft. These are under a spacious nine-foot ceiling.

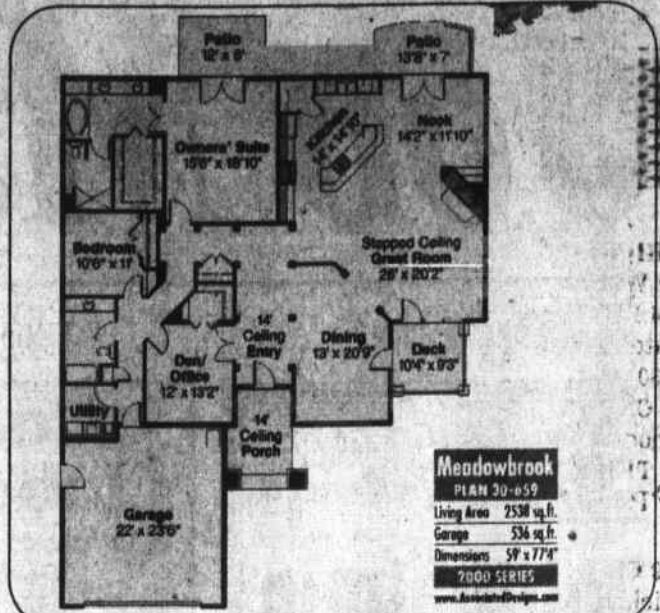

Vaulting expands the volume in the great rooms naturally bright rear. Six wedge-shaped ceiling segments slope dramatically upward to join points at a central apex, and the three rear sections are a virtual wall of multipaned windows. A home entertainment center and woodstove nestle into junctures on both sides of the central section. Here, a set of palladian windows over sliding French doors open out onto a vaulted covered patio.

Two peninsular counters nearly encircle the interestingly angled kitchen. Both counters are open to the great room. The right counter is longer and rimmed by a raised eating bar. Standing at the sink, you can chat with family or friends seated at the counter, or gaze across the great room to the patio and beyond.

A home office and owners' suite fill the Myersdale's left wing. Sliders in the bedroom access the rear, where a relaxing spa could be installed. The walk-in closet is deep. Bathroom features include: a toilet, walk-in shower, spa tub, and dual lav.

Two more bedrooms, a bathroom, and a link to the garage are in the right wing.

20 fast ways to transform a room

Looking for a way to liven up your living space with fast and easy do-it-yourself projects? By using urethane mill-work items, quick upgrade projects can transform the look of any room in minutes. Lightweight yet durable, low-maintenance urethane pieces are ideal for enhancing rooms. The experts at Fypon offer these how-to ideas for fast results:

1. Use a faux beam to create a shelf or fireplace mantel. Available in smooth and woodgrain finishes, the hollow beams install in less than 10 minutes.

2. Install carved leaf or grapevine brackets under kitchen countertops and shelves to add dimension and visual appeal to the room.

3. Add a two-piece ceiling medallion around the top of a light fixture or ceiling fan in less than 15 minutes. Interlocking pieces snap together quickly for fast results.

4. Use window panels to surround a bathtub or whirlpool. It's no problem if the panels get wet because urethane products resist moisture.

5. Create a unique window treatment by hanging a pair of brackets on either side of a window. Insert a dowel rod through the brackets and drape with fabric for a fast and easy decorative window treatment.

6. Top off interior windows with a pediment. For a bold look, add a rams head, sunburst, peaked cap or acorn pediment.

7. Install a set of pilasters on both sides of your shower stall and a door crosshead overhead to upgrade the look of your bathroom.

8. Make a fast towel rack by drilling holes into the center of two brackets. Insert a painted dowel and you have an instant way to hang towels!

9. Create customized shelves to house your knickknacks using mouldings or PVC boards. Faux-finish the pieces to make your collection stand out.

10. Arrange lightweight louvers on a wall to serve as a decorative accent. Use various styles (such as half rounds, vertical, triangles and octagons) with different stains and finishes for an eye-catching display.

11. Break up a full mirror wall in a bedroom by adding straight lengths of molding in interesting patterns. The mouldings will create a visual impact in the room.

12. Bring a flat-based birdhouse cupola inside a sunroom or porch to serve as a focal point in the room. Decorative and unique, you can "dress up" the cupola with ornamental birds and leaves.

13. Use a one-piece square or cathedral louver trim piece to frame a favorite poster or painting.

14. Use a window crosshead for a fast and easy shelf.

15. Add a large sunburst window pediment half round above a bed to serve as a decorative headboard.

16. Place brightly-painted triangular, rectangle, circle and other geometric trim pieces on the walls in a child's room to create a bold, visual look.

17. Top off a standard bookshelf with an impressive combination acorn pediment to add style in any room.

18. Replicate a farmhouse feeling by adding wagon wheel brackets to the upper areas of doorframes.

19. Looking to add a burst of sunshine to your home? Fypon has two different 3-D "Mr. Sunshine" wall hangings that add sparkle to any room.

20. Set off doorframes, window frames mirrors and other large pieces in the house with rosette appliques in various sizes and shapes. Available as small as three inches, these decorative elements draw attention to any area of a room.

Protect your home against water damage

Snow, ice, sleet, and rain can cause damage to the exterior of your home. Surfaces where water collects - like window sills and railings - are especially prone to water absorption, which can lead to peeling paint, wood rot and the growth of mold and mildew, if left unprotected.

So why not protect your home against water damage before the wet winter weather sets in? Thanks to new technologies, it's as easy as applying a fresh coat of paint. Here's some advice from the experts at Zinsser:

- Scrape and remove peeling or chipping paint. Sand rough edges and clean the area thoroughly to remove dirt, dust and other contaminants. Remove and kill mold and mildew with an EPA-registered cleaner like JOMAX House Cleaner and Mildew Killer.

- Apply a high quality exterior primer, like Bulls Eye 1-2-3 Primer Sealer, to seal the surface, block stains and create a sound base for your paint to adhere.

- Select a quality exterior latex paint in the color of your choice and add a water repellent formulated to be mixed with paint, like OKON Paint-Booster Water Repellent Additive, to prevent water absorption and extend the life of your paint job. Just one quart of PaintBooster mixed

Winter Hill opens new branch in North Reading

Customers and town officials joined Winter Hill Bank officers and staff in celebrating the grand opening ribbon cutting ceremony for the new bank building on Route 28 in the Shaw's shopping plaza, North Reading. State Rep Brad Jones, Jr. offered a proclamation from the State Legislature commemorating this special day in the bank's 102 year history.

The free standing bank building includes 2-lane drive-up windows, walk-up and drive, ATM machines, ample parking, and according to Sandra McGoldrick, President and CEO, "The same friendly personal service the bank has become know for in our 35 years in North Reading."

McGoldrick welcomed the crowd of over 100 well-wishers and expressed how this new bank building is a reflection of the Winter Hill's commitment to this community. "We are very proud of our history in North Reading and our new state-of-the-art branch office will allow us to meet the evolving lifestyle needs of this vibrant community. Individuals, families, and small business owners can conduct their banking business in a relaxing atmosphere. We are a true community bank and our success has in large part been due to our ability to keep pace with an ever changing banking landscape with new facilities as well as online banking."

"The new site formerly housed a Pizza Hut and then a Soundworks," said developer Frank Fodera, Jr. President of East Coast Developments, Inc. of Woburn. "In collaboration with the bank, a decision was made to raze that building and construct a new facility that would meet all the bank's needs."

The new Winter Hill Bank

The ribbon cutting ceremony for the new Winter Hill Bank building on Route 28 was held recently to commemorate the grand opening and 35 years of continued service to the community. This week's sampler: Stoneham Potential subdivision in the Robinhood area. The owners are selling this home with barn built about 1880.

Being offered at $1,500,000. Because of the uncertainty of full extent of land use, the Seller will entertain offers that reflect a cost plus approach (@$250K/lot).

Although public records indicate 7.32 acres, total land is approximately 6.75 acres including a stream, wetlands, brush and wooded area. Site needs full engineering and conservation evaluation.

For those of you who want the task of renovating an older home, this could be it! The home consists of 8 rooms, 4 bedrooms and 1 1/4 baths. With a little TLC you could bring it back to life!

Topography map, plot plan of land showing proposed foundations locations and plan of land (Planning Board) are available.

Being offered at $1,500,000. For more information call: Nancy Fudge at Fudge Properties 474 Main Street Wilmington, MA 01887 978-658-7300 or visit us online at GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR SUBDIVISION - 6.75 acres in Robinhood area in Stoneham. The open floor plan (at left) offers the task of renovation to any contractor. Don't pass this by!
